Who'll become Applefest queen?

The Huron Township Applefest will get underway Friday evening with the crowning of the 1983 Applefest Queen and the selection of Johnny Appleseed, starting at 8 p.m.

Activities will be located at "Stage I", across from the Huron Township Hall on Huron River Drive near Waltz Road, and "Stage II", located on Huron River Drive near Violet.

Other top-notch events include: Tug-of-War at Sportsmen's Field on Sterling Street, scheduled for 10 a.m. on Saturday; Firemen's Water ball Fight, noon on Sunday at Huron River Drive; Bazaar and Rummage Sale from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. on Saturday at St. Paul's Lutheran Church; Bar-B-Que Chicken Dinner, from noon on Sunday also at St. Paul's and the Rotary Pancake Breakfast from 8 a.m. until noon on Sunday.

Rec. schedules senior classes

The Romulus Senior Center will offer quilting classes for beginners and advanced students. Classes are $20 for 10 weeks, while those who are 50 or over may pay 50 cents per class.

The quilting class will meet Friday afternoon. For further information telephone 941-0666, extension 254.

Teens and individuals wishing to join an adult basketball or volleyball leagues in Romulus also should telephone 941-0666.

Ash Twp. backs Huron's fight

The Ash Township Board has sent a letter of gratitude to Huron Township Supervisor A.J. Haener thanking the citizens in their effort to block a hazardous waste site facility at Will Carleton and I-275.

Some 1660 residents of Ash Township have signed a petition opposing the Will Carleton site, the letter said.

Ash Township is located on the southern border of the proposed 250-acre site.

Holy Land slide show presented

A member of St. Stephen's parish in New Boston who toured the Holy Land last summer gave a slide presentation of the trip last week at the parish.

John Hedges, a second year theology seminarian at St. John's in Plymouth, visited Jerusalem and later Rome during his three-month study-group trip.

Applefest Annie

With a smile on her face and an apple in her hand and donned in a turn-of-the-century dress, Alice Sheats, better known to Huron folks as "Apple Annie" has been a delightful sight at New Boston Huron's annual Applefest. Jot Oct. 1-2 on your calendar — that's when the Applefest will be held this year.

Landfill millage approved, 2-1

By JERRY DESHARNAIS
(Special ANP Writer)

The millage asking money to fight landfills in Huron Township passed last week by a 2-1 margin.

Of 1421 votes counted, 952 voted yes to the proposal for 2 mills for 2 years, and 469 voted no.

The millage will produce $180,000 each year in revenue.

A massive 3-1 margin, 202 votes to 52 votes, in the Waltz community (precinct No. 3), located only a half-mile from a proposed toxic waste site, made a heavy contribution to the passage of the millage.

In precinct No. 1, located in the New Boston area which is near the Sibley solid waste proposed site, the vote was 125-53, more than a 2-1 margin.

In precinct No. 2, near South Huron road, the speculative alternative site to Sibley, the vote was 136 to 55, better than a 2-1 margin.

The only negative vote was scored in the absentee ballot column — 81 to 95 against.

Precinct No. 8, the mobile home area, scored a stunning 94 to 9 positive count, a 9-1 margin. Since the mobile home site is not located near any particular site, the big vote may be attributable to a strong get-out-the-vote campaign.

The 1421 vote count is considered a low vote for Huron Township. As of 3 p.m. on election day, only 653 people had cast their ballots.

The weather was generally excellent until a downpour around 7 p.m.

There are a little less than 6,000 registered voters in Huron Township's population of 10,000.

"I'm pleasantly surprised and happy," Huron Township Supervisor A.J. Haener reflected over the results of the previous day's millage election in Huron Township.

"I was apprehensive about the outcome," he said.

The passage of the millage, he said, "takes some of the anticipated burden off the township funds."

"We had planned on pursuing to protect the environment but this certainly takes some of the pressure off of the board," he added.

Huron Township passed last Tuesday by a 2-1 margin a millage proposal which will mean $380,000 in revenue to fight landfills over a two-year period.

Only a week before the election, the board had made its selection of Thomas G. Plunkett as the lawyer to represent Huron Township in landfill matters.

"Now our job is to get the accurate information regarding landfill sites to Plunkett," said Haener.

"This is proceeding on schedule," he added.

The trial of Gregory Heisler and John Frye, co-defendants in the murder of Dixie Cobb of New Boston, has been adjourned and remanded respectively.

The defendants were to be tried separately on the same charges: 1st degree murder and

On November 8 ballot

Romulus school board to repeat tax request

By JERRY DESHARNAIS
(Special ANP Writer)

The Romulus School Board voted 6-1 Monday to put the same two millage requests — 1½ and 6 mills (defeated in the Sept. 12 election) — on the Nov. 8 ballot.

A request will be made for 6 mills additional for general operating purposes, and a second proposal for 1½ mills to be earmarked for special maintenance projects.

Both proposals, if approved, will run for 4 years.

This will be the 4th successive attempt to pass additional millage in Romulus in recent years.

The dissenting vote on the school board was cast by Trustee Ken Berlinn who said that the two proposals should be combined and reduced.

However, Berlinn said that he would "wholeheartedly support" the millage proposals that the board voted.

The Sept. 12 vote on the same millage request was defeated by a margin of 2-1.

Supt. William Bedell gave as encouragement that there was better hope for the upcoming millage:

(1) The size of the turnout in a bi-annual election tends to be large because of the interest in the city offices.

The last two times that Romulus schools got additional funds (1981 and 1977) was in a November election.

(2) The proposal offers restoration of school programs which the superintendent believes will be an inducement for a positive vote.

State to plan strategy

A team of education school millage election experts will be assisting the Romulus School District in the upcoming election.

The Romulus School Board of Education voted Monday night to put another millage proposal before the voters during the upcoming city election Nov. 8.

The team, sent by Dr. Phillip Runkel, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, consists notably of Ned Hubbell, a national expert of school millage elections, representing the Department of Education.

John Marrs, a public relations specialist for the Michigan Association of School Boards, and Don Austin, a representative of the Michigan Education Association will also be on the special team.

The team will interview parents and employees during a visit Oct. 5 with the intention of analyzing current issues and attitudes in the district and recommending a plan of action for a successful millage campaign in November.

The team will visit six schools accompanied by Nancy Mitchell, a Cory school area parent.

Budget 'close to balance'

By JERRY DESHARNAIS
(Special ANP Writer)

The annual audit of Romulus schools reveals a drop in deficit of $707,439.

The school district's actual deficit is now $180,487 as of June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

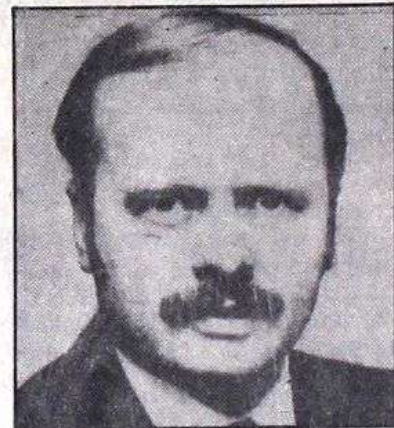

"We're pleased that we were able to bring our budget so close to balance," said Romulus School Supt. William Bedell.

Dr. Bedell said that the new Business Administrator, Joel Carr, did "an outstanding job with budget controls and tracking."

Carr was appointed to the business position after serving 11 years as Romulus High School principal.

Bedell explained that Carr kept close track of revenue and encouraged principals and other employees to stay within their budgets.

"He worked to develop new cost-effective approaches to problems," he said, "in such things as maintenance, telephone costs, and the bidding and purchase of supplies."

DR. WILLIAM BEDELL

However, the biggest chunk of savings was in the rollback of teachers' wages and the continued freeze of other employee wages, the superintendent said.

Teacher salaries were cut back in November at about 22 percent across-the-board. There are 275 teachers in Romulus schools.

This cutback went into effect last November. Since the cutback began late in the school year, the cut amounted to only 13 percent as of last June.

However, if the cut remains in effect through this year, the 22 percent rollback will be fully realized and the current deficit of $180,487 will be eradicated.

A 22 percent salary cut amounts to $1,300,00.

Increased school costs absorbed some of the savings from the salary rollback.

Health Insurance alone rose $295,381.

"It is regrettable that some school districts have to balance their budgets with rollbacks and wage freezes," said Dr. Bedell.

"The board is attempting to correct this through its lawsuit against the state but that could take years," he continued.

"In the meantime, the only hope to have a decent school system in Romulus that treats school fairly is for parents to vote for additional school millage," he said.

In another audit item, the management firm that operates the school lunch program, Greyhound Foods, showed a profit for the first time in three years of operation. This year, $62,495 of lunch profit will go in the general fund.

Heisler murder trial adjourned

Frye case returned to District Court

1st degree criminal sexual conduct.

Dixie Cobb was slain early in the morning of June 20.

The trial of Heisler was adjourned (put off until a future time) until December because the defense attorney, Steven Fenner of the Defense Office, would not be available for the trial date.

In the case of John Frye, Judge William J. Giovan ruled last Friday that the preliminary criminal examination held at 34th District Court in Romulus last July 6 did not provide probable cause.

That is, there was not sufficient evidence provided to sustain a trial in which the specific 1st degree murder charge was made.

A motion was made, by Assistant Prosecutor Chuck Sellar, that the Frye case be remanded (sent back to a lower court) for further testimony.

In effect, further evidence is being asked before the trial can proceed.

It is possible, following the second criminal examination, the date of which has not been set, that Frye will be bound over to Circuit Court on a lesser charge.

The order to remand was signed Monday by Judge Giovan.

The first criminal examination was held before Judge Henry Zaborowski.

The defense attorney for Frye is Alan Helmkamp, appointed to the case by Judge James Stone of the 34th District Court.

It's Applefest time in New Boston

Shriners' Prancers featured in annual parade

By JERRY DESHARNIAS
Special ANP Writer

Three units of the Shriners, including a colorful women's horse unit called "The Prancers", will highlight this year's Applefest parade Oct. 1.

About 25 highwheel cyclists and 43 antique cars and tractors will also be featured in the parade.

The Hazelettes and Bikettes drill teams from Hazel Park, who took state first prizes two years in a row, will also take part.

Both the Romulus High and the Huron High bands are scheduled to march along with 15 marching units which this year will include contingents from the National Guard and the Army.

Entries of nine floats are scheduled.

Compliments from six fire departments and three police units are expected to lead the parade.

This year's parade will have more military presentation, according to parade organizers.

It will have minimally 700-plus participants, 144 vehicles and should take about 2 hours to run.

"Between senior citizens, adults and kids we should have a balanced representation," said Marie Sidun, assistant coordinator to Frank Marvaso, Huron Fire Chief.

Pete Glaab, chairman of the Applefest, said that this year's Applefest is "proving to meet its original objective.

"That objective is to bring the people of the community closer together in a harmonious manner."

"Without a doubt, it's going to be the best we've ever had," he said. "The attitude of the festival workers is so up, and so positive."

After $7,400 spending spree

Stolen credit card suspect is bound over for trial

By JERRY DESHARNIAS
Special ANP Writer

Clifton McGarity, 40, arrested for credit card fraud by Romulus police last Wednesday, was bound over to Wayne County Circuit Court for arraignment Oct. 6.

He was arrested by Officer Dan Snyder and Det. Sgt. David Early at the Ramada Inn after an employee discovered the card he used was reported stolen. He was attempting to use the card to pay his $300 bill, police said.

Officers also found two fox furs in his room, with price tags amounting to $5060.90, purchased in San Antonio.

Jim Barnes, fraud investigator for Michigan Bankard, was present at the preliminary criminal examination last Wednesday at 34th District Court in Romulus.

Barnes said that McGarity began the credit card spree on Sept. 1 until he was apprehended Sept. 12. The card was initially stolen from a Farmington Hills resident who was also present in court.

So far, Barnes said, 14 other charges have been recorded from McGarity, other than the Ramada Inn and two fox furs.

These 14 charges amount to $2,323, for a total of $7,473.90.

Officials say credit card counterfeiting is the 'new trend'

Credit Card counterfeiting is the "new trend" in credit card fraud.

A man in Grand Rapids was arrested in June for the use and possession of several counterfeit cards. Amount of money charged, several thousands.

His bond was initially set at $500,000. After testimony from the man's family as to his character, his bond was reduced to $250,000.

Two men in Pennfield Township, outside of Battle Creek, were arrested last October for possession of 93 counterfeit cards and matching identifications.

They had $20,000 in cash when arrested.

In St. John's, Michigan, two men were arrested in June, 1982, and charged with possession of 23 counterfeit credit cards and possession of $35,000 in cash.

"These cases demonstrate the newest trend in credit card fraud," said James E. Barnes, fraud investigator with Michigan Bankard.

Barnes is one of five investigators with that firm. He operates out of Southfield and was in Romulus to investigate the credit card fraud of Clifton McGarity, nabbed at the Ramada Inn two weeks ago.

"These arrests, convictions, and high bonds indicate the response of the public to the recent threat," he said.

Barnes said that credit card counterfeiters get the real credit card numbers from people who are careless with their receipts.

The account numbers are superimposed on to authentic-looking pieces of plastic.

The crooks manufacture identification to correspond with the false credit card and usually approach banks who deal in cash advances.

The amounts they receive vary from a few dollars to several thousand.

Barnes observed that the recent counterfeit credit card phenomenon is attributable to and is a part of the "natural" progression of the "computer" or "cashless society."

That is, he said, only within the past 15 years has our society evolved into a credit card-oriented society.

"The 'buzz word' here," he said, "is that credit cards are taken for granted by merchants and cardholders." "The vulnerability to fraud of credit card issuers, such as banks, is greatly increased by honest card holders who fail to protect their cards, and by merchants who accept credit cards blindly.

"We are dealing with a 'commodity of convenience,' he continued, "anytime you make it convenient for the credit card holders, you make it convenient for the credit card crook."

In the South, to combat the counterfeiting, a campaign was launched urging the people to "Guard Your Card," Barnes said.

"Think of it as cash," Barnes advises, "not only the plastic card itself, but the account number also."

They're ready for applefest

Putting the finishing touches to the many decorative features for the annual Huron Township "Applefest" are chairpersons for decoration Liz Benson and Marti Sims. More than 40,000 persons are expected to crowd into New Boston Oct. 1-2 to view the festivities and feast upon Huron's delicious apples.

Huron officer attends crime prevention seminar

John Cady, an officer in the Huron Township Police Department, is attending the Crime Prevention School at the Detroit Police Academy.

The course is for a two-week duration.

The school provides basic knowledge in lock, alarm, and lighting technology, as well as security information for residences, apartments and businesses.

Cady will also receive information regarding Neighborhood Watch Programs which will be used in Huron's current program.

Cady, 41, has been a member of the Huron Police Department since 1971.

He will assume the position of Crime Prevention Officer in Huron Township upon his return, assisted by the other officers and reserve officers in the Township.

Who will be the mayor of Romulus?

Who will serve the City of Romulus as its mayor for the next two years — incumbent William Oakley or challenger Beverly McAnally?

It is you, the Romulus voter, who holds the answer to that pertinent question.

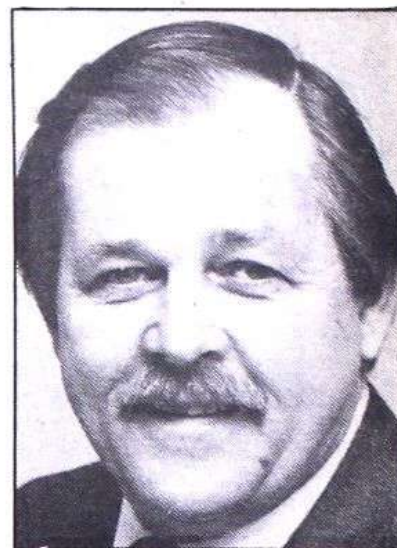

And, on November 8, you will cast your vote for the candidate of your choice.

To help voters decide who will best serve the interests of this city, The Associated Newspapers and The Romulus Roman will offer interviews with the candidates.

These series of interviews begin today with the mayoral race.

WILLIAM OAKLEY
Incumbent:
Oakley

Fifty-three years ago, I was born in the house that my mother lives in, in Romulus.

I went through the school system in Romulus, starting out with the Romulus Elementary school which is now our police station, and I graduated in 1948 from the old, what the people now refer to as the South Junior High. It was our only high school.

Shortly after that, in 1950, I went into business for myself. I ran a gasoline station in Redford Township for 15 years.

After I left the filling station business, I went into the construction business and basically was in the work of building custom homes.

During that time, my wife, Mary, and I raised four children: William, 31; Shiela, 28; Lisa, 24; and Brian, 22.

After working in the Romulus area in the construction business, I was asked to serve on the school board after I had been the chairman of the citizens' group. I took the responsibility of being a school board member.

While I was on the school board I was asked to run for the Charter Commission with the purpose in mind to make Romulus a city. That was back in 1969 when there was a lot of threat to our industrial base being annexed. A group of us got together and the first ballot issue was, "Do you want to be a city? and Who are the City Charter members going to be?"

I was elected to the Charter Commission but the people of Romulus Township at that time said they didn't want a city. Roughly eight months after that, we put the issue back on the ballot and the citizens said yes, we'll vote for cityhood, and I was elected to the Charter Commission again.

As one of the Charter Commission members we worked about 18 months putting together the charter and we put it to the vote of the people and at that time I believe it was the first city of Michigan that had their charter adopted the first it was presented to the citizens.

At that time I chose to be a candidate for the City Council because after working 18 months on the charter, you create an interest to see that it works.

I was elected to the council and served on the council until November of 1977 and that year I decided I would like to try to be the head administrator of the city.

I ran for the mayor's office and I was elected to the position.

I am now in my third term of office and I think we have gone a long ways for stabilizing our Romulus government.

Probably the biggest accomplishment that we've had since I've been mayor is our senior citizen highrise. It was a competitive thing. Several other communities wanted it, and it was a federal funded project.

I believe it was my administration's responsiveness to the agencies involved with the funding and the contractor involved with the construction that made Romulus receive the approval for the highrise.

We've had some financial problems in Romulus and I think a lot of the accomplishments to resolve our problems have been handled because of the attitude of the employees and department heads of the city. I would hope that a lot of that attitude has been because of my attitude.

We've tried to run the city like a business. We've gone from the verge of bankruptcy, to a very financially stabilized community.

We've now gotten into some major paving programs, and you have to remember that the past six years, four of them have been under economic stress. We've had very good accomplishments with the economics we've lived with.

I vision Romulus with 65 percent of its real estate undeveloped as the developing area of western Wayne County.

'Disaster' at Metro Airport

By EVE SILBERMAN
ANP Staff Writer

The fire blazed. Ambulance sirens wailed, and dozens of (mostly young) plane crash victims lying on the ground screamed — and then giggled.

That was the scene Saturday morning when a true-to-life disaster emergency drill was staged at Detroit Metropolitan Airport. Hospital, police and fire officials, and just "plain folks" from several communities in Wayne County were the stars in what was the first full-scale airport disaster drill in several years.

Lasting an hour and a half, the drill simulated events following the "crash" of a 120-passenger jetliner with a smaller plane. Airport officials set a (gasoline ignited) fire on the field near the Delta hanger. After they extinguished it, the mock rescue mission began.

Participants ranged from Wayne fire officials who transported the crash victims to waiting ambulances to school kids like Wayne Gomez, 13, of Romulus.

Wayne's role was to "lie down and play dead" for most of an hour. He was then carried from a stretcher to an airport truck and transported to a mock morgue set up in an airport maintenance building.

Wayne allowed that, if he could choose, he would rather have survived the pretend disaster.

"But I didn't have a choice," said the Romulus Junior High student, whose face, like that of most of the victims, was smeared with mock blood.

"They told me to go to table 5, and at table 5 they said, 'all of you here are dead.'"

Both Wayne and his brother Brad, 16, were recruited as crash victims by their father, a Delta employee. Like most victims they arrived before 8 a.m. to be "made up" inside the Delta hanger.

"I thought this would be interesting since I want to be a pilot," said Brad, whose forehead (like the other fatality victims) was marked by a large black x. "Besides," he added, "my dad told me to come."

The mock disaster was the first full-scale drill in four years, according to Lou Sugo, director of public relations for the Wayne County Road Commission. The road commission, which operates the airport, staged the drill with help from the Wayne County Sheriff's Department and the Wayne County General Hospital.

Other drill planners included the Michigan State Police, the Federal Aviation Administration, and local fire and police officials from more than a dozen communities (including Inkster, Romulus, Wayne, Huron Township, and Garden City).

In the mock rescue effort, rescue workers tagged the victims according to the extent of the injury. (Injury description cards were placed on the victim's wrists.) Then workers transported the victims. The most severely injured first.

About 40 victims were taken by ambulance to Wayne County General, Annapolis, Heritage Hospital, and the radiological treatment center at Garden City Osteopathic Hospital, where staff members gave them treatment.

Metro Airport has never had a fatal crash involving a commercial passenger airline, airline officials point out. But parts of the drill were patterned after the crash last January of a United Airlines DC-8 cargo plane in which three crewmen were killed.

For example, in the mock crash scenario, radioactive material ruptured through a special travel container, exposing two crewmen and two firefighters to radiation. Personnel from Garden City Osteopathic stood by to handle the "exposed" victims.

In the January crash, a container of radioactive substances was on the plane but remained intact.

In Saturday morning's scenario, the volunteer workers removed most of the 80 victims from the field in less than an hour. The dozen "corpses" were the last to be picked up.

"I'll be glad to come alive again," said Melanie Clark, 12, as, stretched on her back, she waited for rescue workers.

For the most part, the mock rescue went smoothly, with a long line of ambulances transporting patients on schedule. One delay occurred when a truckload of "dead" patients had to be reloaded after Wayne County Medical Examiner Charles Kish discovered that rescue workers had forgotten to place traffic markers (indicating the location of bodies) beside the victims.

Sponsors of the drill were also disappointed that the number of volunteers was smaller than anticipated. While airport officials had anticipated 120 aircraft

It was a fake disaster...designed to help people prepare for the real thing. Almost 200 residents and safety officials from several Wayne County communities (including Romulus, Inkster, Huron Township, and Wayne) showed up at Detroit Metropolitan Airport Saturday morning to "act out" events following a pretend plane crash. The Wayne County Road Commission, sponsored the drill. Above: Victims take their places besides the downed plane, (left) Wayne Gomez, 13, from Romulus "plays dead" as he waits to be carried to a mock morgue set up at the airport, (right). Two rescue workers transport a victim to a waiting ambulance headed for a nearby hospital.

"victims," only about 80 showed up.

Many volunteers were the children of airport and hospital officials, or were drawn from local schools. Several members of Taylor High School's Pom Pom Squad were recruited because, said one girl, "they seemed to think we could lie still as well as jump."

Planning for the drill began several months ago. Staff from several area hospitals compiled the "injury" cards, and Patty McDermott, an RN from Henry Ford Hospital, was in charge of the make-up which one victim praised as "spooly authentic."

"We're pleased with the way things went, but we'll know more when we all get together to evaluate," Sugo said. Coordinators of the drill will study videotapes of the rescue, filmed by local officials and Wayne County police.

"We expect to learn a lot from this," Sugo said. "The crash last January reinforced the importance of a trial run."

At Huron High School

Panel to hear landfill testimony

Members of the State Public Health Subcommittee, chaired by Representative Curtis Hertel, will listen to testimony at the Huron High School, 32044 West Huron River Drive, New Boston, Thursday at 7:30 P.M. as residents seek a one-year moratorium on the issuance of waste disposal permits by the Department of Natural Resources.

Acting on the invitation of Wayne County Commissioner Milton Mack, the subcommittee composed of State Representatives Hertel, Jeff Padden, Justine Barns, Vernon Ehlers, and Victor Kraus seeks public input on House Concurrent Resolution No. 452, which would stop the DNR from issuing dumping permits for at least one year.

New Boston youths find skeleton

By JERRY DESHARNAIS
(Special ANP Writer)

It was a warm, sunny day, Aug. 14, and Joe and Tim Lobkovich of New Boston were digging up sand on a side of a pit across the street from their cottage in Irish Hills.

The Lobkovich family had just put up a garage and needed to place sod around it.

Their father, Bob, and young Joe and Tim, both 14, were digging the sand for filler and putting it in a tractor.

The father and Joe returned to the cottage and Joe later returned to the pit.

"I was digging," said Joe, "and I found a leg bone."

"I thought it was from a cow or something because there was a field back there."

Joe brought the bone to the cottage and showed it to his father and a neighbor.

They also thought it was from a deer or a cow.

Tim returned to the pit with Joe and they both started digging.

They threw more bones up into a pile, all along thinking it was from an animal.

The next day, a Monday, both Tim and Joe went with their parents to church in Jackson since it was a Holy Day.

On Tuesday, a neighbor, Gabriel Kovacs, had arrived at the pit with Tim and Kovacs said that the skull was definitely that of a human.

Huron Township residents, facing the possibility of both solid and toxic waste being disposed in their area, passed a two-year, two-mill tax increase Sept. 20, which will raise $380,000, to provide funds for an anticipated prolonged legal battle to keep such companies as Brown-Ferris Industries and Environmental Management Systems from using their neighborhood as a dumping site.

Huron Township officials, when notified recently by the

"I was surprised," said Tim, "because the skull didn't look really human to me."

The sheriff was called and he took a look at the bones and called two detectives who arrived at the scene.

The dig area became off limits as the officers continued to look for more bones. They found almost all of the skeleton.

The bones were brought to the University of Toledo where Dr. Frank Saul, an anthropologist, has determined from examining the skeleton that it belonged to an ancient male American Indian estimated between 25 to 40 years of age when he died.

Saul refused to speculate how old the skeleton is. This will require Carbon 14 dating or examination of the layers of the soil where the skeleton was found.

Saul hopes that the skeleton will be examined further to determine its age.

The skeleton resembles a Pennsylvania skeleton, estimated at 5,000 to 6,000 years old. But only testing will determine its age, he said.

Joe and Tim, both eighth graders at St. Stephen's in New Boston, have not been rewarded by the experience.

It was exciting and amazing, they say. Four newspapers have written articles, including the Detroit News which awarded the boys $25 each for "Best Vacation" of 1983.

And that's what Joe and Tim Lobkovich did last summer.

Schools receive state aid payments

Senate Majority Leader William Faust (D-Westland) today announced that August state aid allocations to schools in the 12th State Senate District totaled $2,699,060. State aid payments to the local school districts are made in August, October, December, February, April and June.

Faust also said that $417,302 in Title I funds and $314,237 in vocational education monies were allocated for distribution to the districts.

The Title I funds help districts pay for special programs for students who need additional assistance. Those funds were allocated to:

Lincoln Consolidated School District, $3,782; Cherry Hill School District, $4,236; Livonia Public Schools, $54,052; Romulus Community Schools, $18,188; Taylor School District, $200,400; Wayne-Westland Community School District, $70,726; Crestwood School District, $11,238; Huron School District, $19,628; Woodhaven Public Schools, $35,053.

Vocational education funds were allocated to:

Airport Community School District, $1,218; Lincoln Consolidated School District, $2,393; Cherry Hill School District, $4,264; Livonia Public Schools, $19,552; Romulus Community Schools, $26,056; Taylor School District, $102,007; Wayne-Westland Community School District, $133,491; Crestwood School District, $2,734; Huron School District, $22,522.

The allocation of the August state aid payments was as follows:

DISTRICT	STATE AID
Cherry Hill School District	$ 135,226
Taylor School District	652,410
Wayne-Westland Community School District	1,667,260

Bike rider

Gary has world at his feet

By JERRY DESHARNAIS
Special ANP Writer

"I donno." That's Gary DeBacker's reaction to the question: How does it feel to be the World Dirt Bike Champion, 1983.

Gary is 8-years-old, a fourth grader at Miller Elementary in Huron Township.

But Gary is sensitive. He realizes that the reporter who asked the question is sort of stuck in his quest for a quote. "I donno" just might not be appropriate.

"I feel a little bit different," he continues. "I donno. Happy, I guess. Proud or whatever."

Gary appears to be hopeful that this is what the reporter needs. It is.

Gary DeBacker is not of the age and experience of Wayne Gretzky of the Edmonton Oilers.

Gary has been a dirt bike rider for four years, starting racing in kindergarten on a Huffy bike, a 20-inch pedal bike.

"Before I got sponsored I rode a Powerlite and an MCS, both pedal bikes," he said, "and when I was riding my Powerlite I got picked up by JMC, Jim Melton Cyclery, a company from California."

Gary explains that "picked me up" means that JMC recruited him on their team.

JMC officials in California heard about Gary from a former member of their official team who was from Michigan. JMC has a 15-member team.

The officials came to a big national race in Waterford, MI. in the summer of 1981 and watched DeBacker perform. That weekend they were convinced.

Since then DeBacker has competed in Los Angeles four times, Missouri, Texas, Australia and Amsterdam.

"And that's not

Gary DeBacker (insert) is in world-championship form even near half," Gary said.

How good is Gary DeBacker?

In 1983 alone he has competed in 25 national competition in the United States from Florida to New Jersey.

And he's won 19, placed second four times, and twice he finished third.

He has won 250 trophies, some of which are upstairs of his home and 80 trophies he gave away to the Special Olympics.

Some of the trophies are taller than Gary, and two trophies he won at the Silverdome are more than six feet tall.

Other than traveling expenses, no actual money is involved although he won a $200 scholarship in Florida.

Now, since he is sponsored by JMC he rides only a JMC.

And he is presently getting ready for a big competition in Chicago.

Gary doesn't train for his races. "I just ride my bike," he said.

His biggest thrill was when he won the World Championship in Holland, Amsterdam, last August.

Gary beat out 37 competitors, all 8 years old, from all over the world.

"My hardest competitor, from California, fell," he said regarding the final race. "It was kind of easy."

How does he explain his ability on a bike?

"I just kind of get hyped up and say 'ooooo, I'm gonna win', and I do," said Gary.

And he does.

Gary is the son of Debbie and Julien DeBacker of 26042 Leontine, New Boston.

"We think he is the greatest," said his mother.

Like the officials at JMC, she is partial.

RHS cheerleaders rate a hurrah

The Romulus High School and Junior Varsity cheerleading squads captured a first place at the USCAA Cheerleading Camp at Adrian this summer.

Serena Hardrick who is in her fourth year as coach, participated in a 4-day summer camp at the college.

Nineteen squads from schools all over the state took part in the camp, taught by three professional instructors.

Each day the squads were evaluated and the final day the top squad was chosen.

Members of the senior squad are Tammy Krushner, captain; Kim Doss, Rhonda Fairris, Beth Perry, Kristie Miller, Sandy Barr, Donna Koerber, Stephanie Layman, and Shannon Cuevas.

Members of the

Ann Arbor VA Medical Center employees win federal awards

Two employees of the Ann Arbor VA Medical Center have been selected to receive Detroit area Federal Employee of the Year awards.

They are Robert A. Vogel, M.D., Ann Arbor, chief of the medical center's Cardiology Section, and Jovilla Mannard, Ann Arbor, a technician in the Nuclear Medicine Service.

The awards are presented annually by the Detroit Federal Executive Board (FEB) to recognize outstanding job performance and community service. One winner was chosen in each of five categories from nominees representing the 30,000 federal employees in the Detroit metropolitan area. The FEB is a group composed of the top administrators from the 28 Detroit area federal agencies.

Vogel, who was selected in the professional/scientific category, is nationally recognized for his research in the diagnosis of heart disease.

He was also cited for his extraordinary dedication to top quality patient care and for his commitment to expanding and improving cardiology services afforded to veterans.

Mannard received the award in the technician/assistant/aid category. A native of Estonia, she immigrated to the United States following World War II. Initially unable to speak English, Mannard mastered not only the language but also the highly sophisticated skills required for work in Nuclear Medicine. She was cited for her outstanding technical ability, her empathy and compassion for patients and her contributions in teaching Nuclear Medicine technician students.

Nominees for the award were selected from among the medical center's 1,000 employees.

Albert Horne, Romulus, a painter's helper, was nominated for the services/trades award. He was recognized for his exemplary job performance and for the effectiveness of his leadership as chief steward of the American Federation of Government Employees, Local 2092.

Horne has taught Sunday school for 17 years and has served as a church deacon for 12 years. He has organized and coached girls' and boys' basketball, softball and baseball teams for more than 30 years.

INTRODUCING THE DIESEL LAWN MOWER.

Kubota introduces a whole new way to mow the grass. It's the first diesel lawn and garden tractor in the country. Kubota's new G-Series lawn and garden tractors come with water-cooled 2- or 3-cylinder diesel engines. They're built to last and are economical to run and maintain. There are four new G-Series models, from 15 to 24 horses. They all have built-in PTO that drive the mower. And you can choose a hydrostatic transmission. The new Kubota G-Series tractors are now available in limited quantities. So don't let the grass grow under your feet. See them soon.

Romulus High's Chris Pennington (center) ranked among the best high school scholars in the country as rated by the National Merit Scholarship scores. He's flanked by Eric Morris and Tim Omarzu who also finished high in the NMS tests.

In top percentile

Romulus senior is NMS qualifier

By JERRY DESHARNAIS
Special ANP Writer

A Romulus High senior scored in the top one percentile of the prestigious National Merit Scholarship qualifying test.

Chris Pennington, 17, who took the test in the fall of 1982, received the announcement recently that he was among the 15,000 qualifiers for the National semi-final competition which has just begun.

If Pennington qualifies for the National final, he will be among the recipients of a $1,000 to $2,500 scholarship which will be awarded to 5,000 of the top qualifiers.

Two other Romulus seniors, Eric Morris and Tim Omarzu, placed in the top 5 per cent of the National Merit Test scorers, what is called the "commended" category.

One million students took the test last fall.

Pennington says he plans to enter college next fall to study computer science and engineering, or a combination of both.

"I'm very pleased with the results, he said.

Principal Al Sheffield said that "in a nation that places great value on the education of its young people, it is important to honor academically talented students and to acknowledge the part that schools play in the development of their abilities.

Romulus High has an enrollment of 550 students, instructed by 80 teachers.

The school had a semi-finalist winner last year, Cheryl Paton, who is now attending Eastern Michigan University.

$6,200 grant approved
Belleville bike path planned

Bike riding may gain in popularity among South Junior High School students, as a result of a soon-to-be constructed bicycle path to extend from Sumpter and Davis to the junior high.

At its September 20 meeting, the Belleville City Council approved $6,200 in federal block grant money to construct the bicycle path.

"We're shooting to get it done by the end of October," said Belleville City Manager Frank Pascarella. "It shouldn't take more than a couple of days (to construct)."

To build the approximately six feet wide path, workers will grade and cover with asphalt a side of Sumpter Road, Pas-carella said. Construction bids will be advertised within the next couple of weeks, he added.

The idea for the bicycle path has been discussed over the past couple of years. Parents of the junior high school children have long been concerned over their children walking down the shoulder of Sumpter Road.

The decision to build the bike path is "good news" for the junior high school students, said Don White, South Jr. High principal.

"A lot of our kids ride bikes now, and I expect the numbers to grow once that path goes up," White said.

Currently, many students walk a mile from their homes to the school since the school buses won't pick up students living within a mile of the school, said Randall Buss, Director of Transportation.

The bicycle path will extend from the railroad tracks near Davis going south to the junior high.

Funds for the bike path comes from the second year of a three year funding package.

Huron students have physical ed.

School program is restored

The physical education program in Huron elementary schools was reinstated by a unanimous vote of the school board last week.

The program, which was dropped in 1979 in an economic cut-back, will now include a structured physical education curriculum taught by a certified physical education instructor.

One instructor will conduct classes at Riverside and Miller elementary schools.

There are 211 students from St. Stephen's Catholic School who will participate in a "shared time" class at Miller, as well as 105 students from St. John's Lutheran School in Waltz.

Net cost of the program to the Huron School District will be approximately $10,000.

One teacher currently on layoff is being recalled.

"For the first time in seven years that I've been a superintendent," Supt. Gary Jackson said later, "a program is being restored rather than cut."

In other business, the Board was informed of a donation of $71,618 worth of equipment, including a lathe for the vocational educational metals program.

The donor was John Hancock, president of Jo-Pat Investments of Taylor. It was equipment that the firm donated as a tax write-off rather than sell in an auction. Dave Smith, instructor, will use the equipment in his class work.

The annual school audit for Huron, ending on June 30, revealed a positive fund balance of $270,855. This figure represents approximately 4 percent of the total budget.

The audit report was done by Hungerford, Cooper, Luxom and Company.

In other matters, the board directed the superintendent to solicit bids for the school food service program.

In another item, the board also adopted a resolution supporting the efforts of the Huron Valley Citizens Associations (HVCA) and went on record as opposing construction of landfills in Huron Township.

Special adult ed. programs begin

Huron's Adult Education program has begun a program for students with "closed-head" injuries.

Nineteen students, who have sustained injuries to the head as a result of accidents, are enrolled in the unique program.

The program is an innovation of Miller Elementary instructor Dr. Byron Antcliff. It involves wheelchair students who are transported daily from nursing homes in the area to Miller Elementary.

The nature of the injuries generally involves damage to the brain without open laceration. The brain damage has affected the total coordination.

The 19 students receive training in reading, life skills, math and physical education.

Dr. Antcliff instructs the students, ranging in age from 18 to 40, in his classroom.

These students were previously regarded as non-educable, according to Roger Benner, Community Education Director.

Enrollment is still open, Benner said. Anyone interested should contact him at 782-1505.

School group launches survey

A Citizen's Committee working for the Romulus Community Schools' Board of Education is meeting to develop procedures to gain information from teachers, students, and parents concerning possible program restoration if the Nov. 8 millage passes.

The committee, chaired by the Reverend Dr. Gordon Schleicher, has asked the Romulus Education Association to survey teachers on those programs that might be replaced (or new ones developed) if the millage scheduled for Nov. 8 is successful.

At the same time, teachers will be conducting surveys of all students from the fifth through the 12th grades to gain their input. Parents will be mailed an opinion survey for their reaction.

The committee, known by the acronym E.P.I.C., hopes to present early in November a priority listing of items to be restored or added to the Romulus program if the millage is successful.

Chairman Schleicher has invited the public to appear to give testimony or to observe the committee beginning at 8 p.m. at the Board of Education Offices on Oct. 10th.

Belleville's Country Sports is a unique store

It offers wide range of sports equipment, lessons and ice cream cones, too

By PAT RICHARDS
ANP Special Writer

Remember when you were a kid?

Long, lazy summers, eating ice cream, floating in inner tubes and riding bikes. The fall brought delightful hayrides followed by a bonfire, roasting hot dogs and marshmallows.

Enjoy being a kid again — get yourself down to Country Sports, 533 Main.

You name it — any season — they've got it: brand names to buy, lessons to take and fun to rent. Brand names such as Nike, Speedo, Woolrich, Gerry, Danskin, E.P. Water Skis and Trak Cross Country Skis are available at reasonable rates.

Fall exercise enthusiasts may choose shoes for running or court use, gym shorts and warmup suits. For aerobatics, choose from a huge selection of Danskin leotards. The store also features racquetball equipment.

In fact, Gil Schmitt, 35, owner of Country Sports, was a professional racquetball player for Sports Illustrated Magazine. He won the State of Michigan Racquetball championship in 1977 and again in 1978.

Sports Illustrated in Chicago brought Schmitt to Michigan as a marketing director to hire and train all the managers for the Sports Illustrated Clubs.

Gil brought in consultants from all over the United States. They were based at Lemontree, lecturing and training future managers 10 hours a day, 6-days a week. He then decided he wanted his own business and opened his store in Belleville in October of 1981. (Be sure to watch for their second anniversary sale next month).

Gil graduated from high school in Chicago, Illinois, and majored in sociology and physical education at the University of Wisconsin.

Gil's wife, the former Ruthan Schmalzer, whips up all the graphics for the store. Gil speaks proudly of Ruthan's work. "We get a lot of compliments on our flyers. Our customers say they are unique," he said. Ruthan works for Buck Heim and Roland Advertising Agency in Ann Arbor.

Manager Richard Bassett, a Bellevillite and graduate of Belleville High School, is in his senior year in business at Eastern Michigan University.

The store is the former Detroit Edison Building. Gil has completely renovated the inside and outside, clearing brush and installing an ice cream window — just like the dairy queen.

You can order variety of savory Cloverdale ice cream flavors. Then relax at the picnic table on the deck overlooking Belleville Lake and let the lake breeze rejuvenate you.

When you finish your ice cream, stroll down on the deck in back of the store. A huge billboard which faces the lake reads: Paddle boat, Canoe, Windsurfing, Water Rentals, Skis, Sailboards, Rubber Rafts, Tubes, and Tandem Bikes (a bicycle built for two).

"Next year," says Gil, "I want to get into jet skiing (a motorcycle on skis)".

Country Sports provides year-round lessons and rentals. You'll only need one or two lessons. "Usually one will do it," says Gil. You'll be water-skiing and manning a small sailboat before you know it.

They also teach cross-country skiing at the store location as well as Van Buren Park, Huron Metro Park and Wiards, offering group and private lessons.

New businesses choose Michigan Avenue locations

A new restaurant and an automobile agency are among the latest commercial developments being planned in Wayne.

The proposed developers, Sisters Chicken and Biscuits Co. and Budget Rent-A-Car, are scheduled to present site plans next Monday at a special meeting of the City Planning Commission, reported Community Development Director John Zech.

Sisters, a subsidiary of Wendy's Inc., will construct a new restaurant at the site of the former Texaco gas station at the northwest corner of Michigan Avenue and Venoy. Zech said the company plans to demolish the gas station and build a new structure to seat 80 persons with drive-in facilities available.

The company hopes to establish 40 restaurants in the Wayne, Oakland and Macomb County areas within the next few years.

Zech said. Sisters has five Michigan locations to date: two in Detroit and one each in East Detroit, Ferndale and Warren.

Budget will sell late model, used Budget vehicles at the former Carpenter Dodge facility, located at the northeast corner of Michigan Avenue and Josephine Street.

According to Zech, Budget will operate in a similar fashion to the Avis dealership which replaced the former Lebaron-Hargrove-Muir Oldsmobile agency in the city.

In another commercial development matter, the Wayne City Council approved Tuesday the site plan with contingencies for establishment of Maxwell's Donut Station at 37410 Michigan Ave., which formerly had served as a Gulf gas station at the northwest corner of Michigan and Newburgh Road.

From the state Money-saving suggestion earns local resident $1,000

Governor James J. Blanchard joined in honoring 46 individuals, including a Belleville resident, whose suggestions to improve state government have saved the state in total nearly $6 million over the past four years.

The 46 recipients, representing a cross-section of state government, each received the top $1,000 award through the State Suggestion Award Program, administered by the Michigan Department of Civil Service, and were awarded plaques at a reception at the Lansing Civic Center.

"This administration is grateful to the 46 employees who received the top award of $1,000 and to the 447 employees who received less than the maximum award. We say thanks to the thousands of others who made suggestions that weren't accepted, and encourage you to try again."

The Suggestion Award Program, which began in 1978, gives cash awards for suggestions where there is monetary benefit to the state, and monetary or recognition awards in cases where benefit cannot be translated into dollar savings.

Blanchard said, "So far, less than $90 thousand spent for awards has saved almost $6 million — and that's based on the first year's savings from those suggestions. That means every time a dollar was awarded, the state got back more than $66 — and that savings goes on in many cases, year after year."

Eleanor F. Trebilcock, of Belleville, a Michigan Department of Mental Health employee, earned a $1,000 award for her suggestion that contractual service contracts for ambulance service at Ypsilanti Hospital be obtained by bid. This suggestion saved the State $11,087 in the first year.

Do not forget the hayrides. You can even have a guitar player to lead you in song. You can jump off at Thornhollow Farms or Wiards Orchards and warm yourself in front of a glowing bonfire. Both locations can provide fresh apples and apple cider.

If you travel I-94 between Haggerty and Belleville Road, look for the new billboard that advertises hayrides. It replaces the Strawberry Hotline advertisement, about half-mile before the Belleville Road exit.

Interesting! Unique! Creative! These words describe the business that is so different, from any other business.

Whoever heard of an ice cream window in a sporting good store? Where else can you rent paddle boats and tandem bikes? Where else can you plan a hayride and later snuggle before a cozy fire?

And where else can you be greeted by a charming miniature gray Schnauzer named Ace'r? The answer is, of course, Country Sports.

Rockwood mayor is Chamber speaker

By JERRY DESHARNAIS
Special ANP Writer

Melford D. Cunningham, the Mayor of Rockwood and conservation auditor for Michcon (Michigan Consolidated Gas Company of Detroit) spoke before the Romulus Chamber of Commerce last week.

Cunningham discussed methods by which a homeowner can reduce costs of heating.

The monthly Chamber of Commerce meeting was held at the Holiday Inn in Romulus.

Thirty-six persons attended the meeting, chaired by Chamber president Leo Kolata.

The meeting is held the third Tuesday of each month.

Those businessmen interested in attending should contact the Chamber of Commerce at 941-5710.

Next luncheon will be at the Hilton Inn on Oct. 18 at 11:30 a.m.

Guest speaker will be Sgt. Mike Terpevich from the Romulus Police Department.

Terpevich will be giving a demonstration of the "Breathalyzer".

Hopson nets national honor

Romulus insurance executive Ronald L. Hopson was named to national sales leadership honors in August by the Franklin Life Insurance Company, Springfield, Illinois — his performance among the best in the company's nationwide network of more than 4,000 field associates.

Designated a member of the Franklin's President's Club, Hopson will receive special recognition from Company President William J. Alley, CLU for his exceptional sales performance.

The 99 year old Franklin is one of the world's largest life insurance institutions, with assets in excess of $2.6 billion and over $17.7 billion of insurance in force.

Belleville resident is promoted

A Belleville resident, Mark Depker, has been elected a general partner of the Hall Real Estate Group, the nation's largest private syndicator of rental properties.

He is a senior vice president of Hall Management Co., a Hall Real Estate Group affiliate.

Hall Real Estate Group manages limited partnerships which own some 30,000 apartment units in 12 states, including 8,000 in Michigan, including Lemontree and Honeytree, totaling 1,900 units, in Western Wayne County. It is believed to be Michigan's largest landlord.

Tribute to a Revolutionary War soldier Pioneer family honored

By EVE SILBERMAN
ANP Staff Writer

A commemorative marker on the grave of a Revolutionary War soldier ended a three year labor of love for a descendant of one of Van Buren Township's oldest pioneer families.

Van Buren Township officials joined Laurie Post Forbes last week for the marking of the grave of Cornelius Post, buried in the Tyler Street cemetery in 1849. In what Post described as a "simple but very satisfying" ceremony, she placed the bronze plaque with the DAR (Daughters of the American Revolution) insignia on her great-great-great-great grandfather's grave.

"I feel good about having him recognized," said Forbes.

The ceremony marked the end of three years of effort for Forbes, a Dearborn resident. To substantiate her relative's right to DAR recognition, she had to pour through volumes of heavy texts at the Detroit Public Library . . . carry on an exhaustive correspondence with federal government officials . . . xerox page after page of long ago military records and census data.

"The Post family is well-known to old-time Van Buren residents . . . many old-timers in the community remember Ms. Forbes's grandparents, Orrin and Doreene Post."

"This isn't a hobby. It's an all-consuming passion," said Forbes, who works full time for a brokerage firm in Dearborn.

While she was able to confirm that her ancestor had honorably performed in the revolutionary war, he remains a "shadowy" figure.

"I know he was born in 1761 and died in 1849," said Forbes. "Besides fighting in the revolution, he turned up in the war of 1812 as well. He came to this area around 1839, and he spent most of his life farming."

"Just a quiet sort of fellow, like most of our family," Forbes concluded.

A more exciting branch of the family tree was Captain Adrian Post, a Dutch navigator and explorer who settled in New York (then New Amsterdam) about 1653.

"He was founder of the Staten Island Colony, and he survived an Indian massacre on a plantation. That's a lot for someone to do, don't you think?" Forbes said.

The Post family is well-known to old-time Van Buren residents. While no one in the family lives in the township now, many old-timers in the community remember Ms. Forbes's grandparents, Orrin and Doreene Post.

"Darwin Kureth (a Van Buren Township trustee) and his wife showed up for the (grave marking) ceremony. They were old friends of Grandpa Post, and it was great seeing them," Forbes said.

Forbes frequently visited her grandparents as a child, who moved to Liberty Street after selling their farm on Tyler Road. The farm had been in the family since Cornelius Post settled in Van Buren almost 100 years earlier.

While Forbes drew satisfaction from having laid her great-great-great grandfather satisfactorily to rest, she's still busy putting together the pieces of the family's "giant jigsaw puzzle." Currently, she's corresponding with "some people in California who are very distantly related to my family" as well as tracking down more family history during the Civil War.

She'd also like to pay a visit to a state library in New Jersey where an etching of the illustrious Adrian Post is kept in a book of family portraits.

"Talking my husband into making the trip with me," Ms. Forbes said, "is my next project."

Remembering our past

Moores picked U of D Presidential Scholar

JACK MOORES III

Jack Moores III of Romulus was among the 77 students in the nation's 1983 high school graduates who the University of Detroit has picked for its prestigious Presidential Scholars' Award.

The award carries with it a four-year half-tuition scholarship for undergraduate study at the university.

To compete for the title, students must graduate from high school with a 3.0 or higher grade-point average (4.0 scale) and score at least 25 on the ACT or 1,100 on the SAT college entrance examinations.

Romulus seeking instructors

The Romulus Recreation Department is seeking instructors for its macrame and sewing classes. Those who are qualified are urged to apply by contacting the recreation offices at 941-0666.

The recreation department also has openings for adult basketball league referees.

Hearty stuffed potatoes

This recipe takes advantage of the speedy cooking of potatoes in a microwave oven. After the potatoes are cooked, the centers are scooped out of the shells and whipped with chives and egg for a richer flavor. The skins are then refilled with chopped ham and the whipped potatoes.

The final touch is a topping of vegetables — broccoli, cauliflower and carrots — with a cheese sauce. To save the time and steps of preparing vegetables and sauce from scratch, the recipe calls for a frozen vegetable combination that includes rich cheese sauce right in its cooking pouch.

Hearty Stuffed Potatoes

- 2 large baking potatoes
- 1 teaspoon chopped chives
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- Dash pepper
- ½ cup finely diced, cooked ham
- 10-oz. pkg. Green Giant® Harvest Get-Togethers® Frozen Broccoli, Cauliflower and Carrots in Cheese Sauce

Prick well-scrubbed potatoes twice with a fork. Microwave on HIGH for 8 to 11 minutes, turning over halfway through cooking time. Potatoes will feel slightly firm. Remove from microwave oven and wrap in aluminum foil; let stand 5 to 10 minutes to complete cooking. Unwrap potatoes and cut each in half lengthwise. Scoop out potato, leaving a ¼-inch shell. Place shells in glass baking dish.

In small bowl, combine potato, chives, egg and pepper. Beat at medium speed until smooth. Microwave vegetable pouch according to package directions; set aside.

Place 2 tablespoons ham in each potato half; spoon potato mixture over ham. Set shells aside. Microwave on HIGH for 1 to 2 minutes or until thoroughly heated. Place on serving plate. Spoon vegetables and sauce over each potato. 2 servings.

CONVENTIONAL DIRECTIONS: Heat oven to 400°F. Prepare potatoes for baking as directed above. Bake at 400°F. for 45 to 55 minutes or until done. During final 20 minutes of baking, prepare vegetable pouch according to package directions.

Combine potato with chives, egg and pepper. Fill each potato half with 2 tablespoons ham; top with potato mixture. Spoon hot vegetables over top.

Scott-Tackett vows read in Ohio

Double ring vows were exchanged Sept. 10 between Cheryl Ann Tackett of Whittlesey Avenue, Norwalk, O., and William H. Scott of Woodlawn Avenue, Norwalk.

The Rev. George Bell presided at the afternoon rite before some 68 guests at the First United Presbyterian Church in Huron, O.

The daughter of Robert D. and Linda E. Tackett of Rust Road, New Boston, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She carried a bouquet of blue and white roses and azaleas and wore a traditional white gown featuring a Queen Ann neckline and four-foot train.

Jean Haynes of Norwalk, wearing a blue gown and holding a bouquet of yellow roses, was honor attendant while Mike Haynes of Norwalk served as best man.

At the reception which followed in the Fellowship Hall of the church, the bride's mother greeted guests in a purple dress with accents of matching lace and a corsage of white roses. White carnations were added to the burgundy ensemble which the bridegroom's mother chose for the occasion.

A 1980 graduate of Huron High School the new Mrs. Scott is employed by Drs. Novotny and Feltman in Huron and Milan, O., respectively. Her husband, a 1982 alumnus of Huron High School, is employed by Gardnes Cardinal in Norwalk.

Business wardrobes to be topic at Oct. 3 BPW dinner-meeting

The Belleville Business and Professional Women (BPW) will meet for their monthly dinner meeting at 6:30 p.m. Oct. 3 at Faith United Methodist Church of Denton.

The program, a wardrobe/investment seminar, will be conducted by Casual Corner of Briarwood Mall. Four BPW members will be participating.

The title of the program is — "Learn how to project a professional, successful image thru planned selection of the appropriate wardrobe."

Guests are encouraged to attend this beneficial program, geared to working women. Reservations must be made by calling Gwen Ashe at 699-5030.

—Golden weddings marked—

• Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wisniewski •

A dinner-dance at Belleville's PNA Hall marked the golden wedding anniversary of Frank and Mary Wisniewski of 36916 Mario Ann Ct., Romulus.

Their special day began with a renewal of vows before The Rev. Walter Lezuchowski at St. Aloysius Catholic Church's 12:00 mass Sept. 11. Frank Glinski and Al Wisner, members of the 1933 wedding party, were among those in attendance.

Mary Glinski of Belleville became Mrs. Wisniewski 50 years ago, on Sept. 2, at St. Stephen's Catholic Church in New Boston. Their family now includes three children, Mrs. Charles (Virginia) Miller of Ann Arbor; Stanley, who lives with his wife, Susan, in Canton; and Mrs. Robert (Agnes) Cook of Belleville. There are also 12 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren on their family tree.

Prior to their move to Romulus 20 years ago, the Wisniewskis resided in Belleville. Retired in 1960 from the Ford Motor Co., the "bridegroom" and his wife enjoy bowling, dancing and playing bingo in their leisure hours.

They are members of St. Aloysius Church and the Gregorian Club there, the Romulus Progressive Club, the Romulus Senior Citizens Club and the Belleville Moose Lodge. They are also affiliated with the PNA Lodge where the "bride" is financial secretary. Her husband also belongs to the Knights of Columbus in Wayne and is a member of his church's ushers club.

Some 175 guests from California, Almont, Roscommon, Wayne, Westland, Hillsdale, Canton, Garden City, Ann Arbor, Romulus and Belleville answered invitations to the reception hosted by the Wisniewski's children and their spouses. Tables decorated with gold carnations and a 3-tiered wedding cake were among the highlights at the buffet dinner.

• Mr. and Mrs. Basil T. Bell •

The 50th anniversary of their marriage on Oct. 3, 1933 in Pattonsburg, Mo. will be celebrated Oct. 1 by Basil T. and Mary L. Bell of Albany, Ky., formerly of Romulus.

Mrs. Bell was Mary Leona Myers of Coffey, Mo. when she married her spouse, the union of which produced five children, 16 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

A reception in their honor will be held Oct. 1 at the Ypsilanti Township home of their son and daughter-in-law, Tom and Karen Bell. Guests, expected from Virginia, Missouri, Kentucky, Arkansas and Kansas, will include the couple's granddaughter, Debbie Voiles of Houston, Tex. Hosts along with the Tom Bells will be the celebrants' other children, Wanda and her husband Bob Scott of Union Hall, Va.; Geraldine and her husband, Elton Ridge of Inkster; Nancy and her husband Dean Voiles of Dearborn Heights, and Judy and her husband, Ronnie Amox of Bow, Ky.

Mr. Bell, who retired in 1969 from the Ford Motor Co. after 32 years, and his wife had made their home at 6796 Homefield in Romulus for 34 years prior to their move south.

New on the scene

David Scott Vandalen

The arrival of their first child, a baby boy, is announced by David and Tammie Vandalen of 600 Sumpter Road, Belleville. The new heir, who was titled "David Scott", bowed in at 5:13 p.m. Sept. 14 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

The eighth grandson of Agnes Scott and the 12th for Donald and Sybil Vandalen, he weighed in at 7 lbs. - 12 ozs. and measured 20 inches.

The new mother is the former Tammie Scott.

Jennifer Ann Skelton

Jennifer Ann is the name chosen by Julie and Mike Skelton of Belleville Road, Belleville, for their little daughter born Sept. 13 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

The infant made her debut at 7:53 a.m., weighed 7 lbs. - 1 oz. and measured 20¼ inches.

She is the new granddaughter of Don and Marjory Priest of Belleville and Troy and Mary Skelton of Dayton, O. Great-grandparent congratulations are going to Ada Priest of Chelsea; Howard and Sylvia Burden of Bradenton, Fla.; Cleo Skelton of Princeton, W. Va. and Martha Young of Gainesville, Fla.

Jennifer's mommie is the former Julie Priest.

EDITOR'S NOTE: News of your baby's birth, that of a grandchild — in this area or elsewhere — or that of former residents are welcome additions to this column. Call 697-9191 with your information.

potpourri

BY LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

I have a great "fondness" for that wonderful, creamy, frozen stuff that sometimes comes sitting atop a wafer-like conical holder, other times has to be scooped out from a half-gallon container or, better still, is arranged in colorful balls in a low, boat-shaped dish with guardrails of banana halves. Those spheres must, of course, have all those gooey, sticky, messy, delicious toppings ladled atop and running amok and, last but not least (certainly in my case), be garnished with delicate ruffles of honest-to-gosh whipped cream.

If you've been brought up in the American tradition, you'll know it's the queen of the ice cream world, the banana split, over which I'm fantasizing. Not just any ol' run-of-the-mill split, however; my reverie is taking me to Jackson and the area's — possibly the State's — most wonderful ice cream emporium, The Parlour.

Its creation boasts six scoops — fist-sized, to boot — which stands no less than eight inches tall on completion. On our last visit, the tab was $2.50 — no comparison with a B.R., Farrell's, Ho-Jo's or any other specialty shop.

Off the beaten path — it's "inland" from I-94 by more blocks than I'd care to guess but perhaps a couple miles — The Parlour plays to SRO (standing room only) on hot summer days. Waits of over an hour during prime season are not uncommon and once you've set your heart (taste buds) on a jumbo hot fudge pecan sundae, a ridiculously monstrous root beer float (served in a gigantic vase which'd hold gladiolas!) or any one of a number of offerings, you wait that hour!

Trips to and from Kalamazoo over a 10-year period when our trio was doing the campus scene found The Parlour to be a convenient stop for a "snack" (pig-out). Now that we still traverse the route to Windy City territory, we time ourselves and, in lieu of lunch or dinner, fill in with a rich-in-calicum selection. Confections they're a meal in themselves so "timing" is all important.

There's nothing but ice cream served at the horseshoe-shaped counters and there's no lingering once you're sated (filled to sinful overflow) — you wipe your lips, clean off your gooey fingers and roll-on-out to the car. Others are waiting to take your place, so it's "get along little piggy."

It's the "special place" you take non-area visitors if only to watch their reaction to the tableau. As a novice, I almost fell of the stool on my first encounter with a Parlour split and supplied the "old-timers" sharing our "U" with the expected blush and double-take. They knew I was an amateur and sat watching to see how I'd handle that 3-story structure; it's a tricky, delicate maneuver to keep it upright. We've since joined the "pros" in the spectator division and find people-watching as enjoyable as indulging.

Probably the most fun we've ever had in our hosting detail was introducing an English visitor to our bad habits. He was absolutely agog at the spectacle — dozens and dozens of people (all ages) doing the same thing, filling their faces with ice cream. England, he told us, is barely acquainted with the delicacy let alone in such overwhelming proportions.

It was no trouble making a believer out of him, however, and he managed the split without the proverbial bat of an eyelash. His only regret was not having his camera along to record the scene for posterity.

My partner in crime and I've not been to Sin City for some time and you might think it strange that I'd pick a dip-in-the-weather (it's 49 at the moment) to write about ice cream of all things. Naturally something triggered the "memory" and you've the Millburn (New Jersey) High School to credit or blame for this week's epistle.

How much chocolate syrup does it take to top the world's largest banana split? Those teen-agers, who broke the Guinness Book of World Records in May, used 1,120 quarts of the stuff.

The split was put together with the help of 2,000 students and volunteers who worked simultaneously to make a banana split that measured 8,500 feet — or, 1-½ miles!

The record-breaking sculpture took 12,750 bananas, 8,000 pints of ice cream, 1,120 quarts of chocolate syrup, 280 pounds of nuts, 120 cans of whipped cream and 9,000 maraschino cherries.

Sorry, kids but that's hardly kosher and shouldn't have been labeled a "split" — "boat" maybe but not split. The "real thing" has to have not only those traditional three flavors but the appropriate toppings for each — pineapple or strawberry or marshmallow along with the chocolate.

Anyway, proceeds from the sale of one-foot sections of the creation went into a school scholarship fund, so split or not, the kids must've had a whale of a time (and one big bellyache) with their "monster."

If you're feeling a bit cheated at having missed out on that New Jersey binge, you might want to emulate the specialty-of-the-house from that place in Jackson. First you take a big silver Revere bowl, then 24 baseball-sized dips of ice cream — each a different flavor — then pour on the toppings, the nuts, the whipped cream, the cherries and you have — "Dare to be Great" — AND, we dare you!

THEY HAD HONORS 'BACK THEN'

FICTION BUFFS might care to have a little trivia tossed their way as to what headed the best seller lists in days of yore. "Potpourri" does this now and then and as of the last bit, we were up to 1936 when Gone With the Wind captured the reading public and, eventually, the world.

Forty-six years ago Walter D. Edmonds was at the top of the heap with Drums Along the Mohawk and Kenneth Roberts with Northwest Passage, both titles we recognize but what about the authors? Strangers to you, too?

In 1938 we were given Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings' poignant The Yearling and a year later the public was buying Rebecca by Daphne DuMaurier and The Grapes of Wrath by John Steinbeck.

Pre-war lists were capped by two more that would eventually be made into movies, How Green Was My Valley by Richard Llewellyn and Kitty Foyle by Christopher Morley.

A. J. Cronin's The Keys of the Kingdom and Hemingway's For Whom the Bells Tolls took honors in 1941 and also became silver screen offerings.

More on this at a later date.

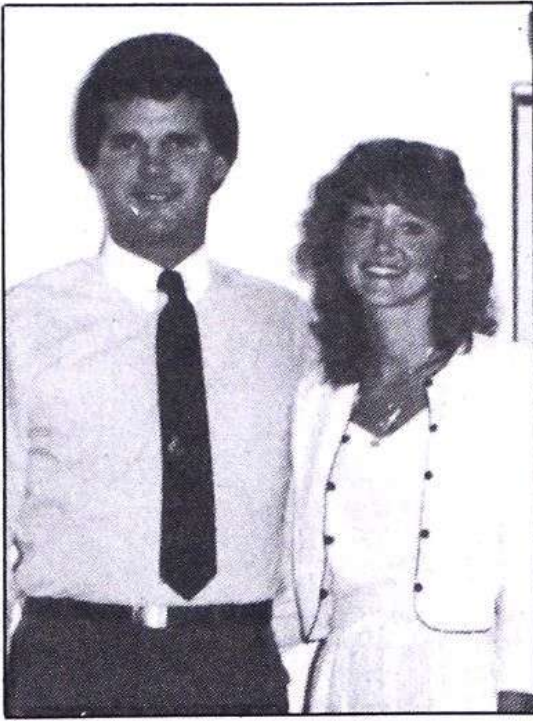

THE BOTTOM LINE: There are many things that are better than money, but unfortunately we need money to buy them

November weddings set

Turney-Bruin

Wendy Turney of Haslett, the daughter of Virginia Turney of Sanford, N.C., formerly of Belleville, and the late Leo Turney, is engaged and busy with plans for her Nov. 19 marriage to Martin Bruin, the son of Wayne and Mary Bruin of St. Johns, MI. The bride-elect is a graduate of Belleville High School and Western Michigan University. Her fiancé, who is employed at Bruin's General Tire, graduated from St. Johns High School and Lansing Community College. The autumn nuptials will be held in Lansing.

Wilson-Latondress

Diane Lynn Wilson and David John Latondress are engaged and making plans for a Nov. 19 altar date. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald J. Wilson of Avondale, Westland, the bride-elect graduated from Wayne Memorial High School and is currently working as a secretary at A.B. Heller Screw Products in Detroit. Her fiancé, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Latondress of Winston Street, Monroe, is a 1974 alumnus of Monroe High School. He earned his bachelor's degree in business administration at Eastern Michigan University and is currently employed as an engineer at the Enrico Fermi II Plant.

After having spent the past five weeks with members of her family in Michigan, among them the Albert Dolphs of Edgar Street, Mrs. Hildur Waters left Tuesday for her home in Marine, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. William Henderson spent a long weekend at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. and enjoyed taking the Algoma Railway trip through the Agawa Canyon. They report the colors were very beautiful.

Mrs. George C. Wilson returned home last week after having spent a week with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Peterson in Rockport, Ill.

John T. Thompson Sr. is now convalescing at his home on High Street after having undergone recent surgery at Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti.

Members of the now defunct Huron Valley Garden Club met Monday, Sept. 19, for luncheon at Woodstone Inn to honor and enjoy visiting with a former member, Gladys Mast, who has been visiting relatives and friends in the area for the past two weeks. She and her husband, Rodney, left for their home at Punta Gorda, Fla. the next day.

Mrs. Blanche Atyeo enjoyed a trip to Lebanon, O. with her son-in-law and daughter. Mr. and Mrs. Ted Lent-Koop of Dearborn, this past weekend.

Friends, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schiller of Stratford, Conn., were recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Robson of Tyler Road.

Wendy Smith of Falls Church, Va. was a guest this past week of her grandmother, Mrs. Milton (Ruth) Smith of Wabash Street. She left Thursday for East Lansing to take up her studies at Michigan State University.

On Saturday, Sept. 17, members of the Jim Schultz family gathered at their home on Hoeft Road for a cookout in celebration of Jim's birthday. Present, besides members of their family, were his sister and husband, Dolores and Bill Finch and son Billie, of Holland; another sister, Joan Schultz of Brighton; his mother and dad, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Schultz of Westland, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Frances Korgal of Sumpter Road.

Another birthday celebration was held Sunday, Sept. 18, at the George Haft home in honor of the seventh birthday of their granddaughter, Jennifer Hyde of Tecumseh. Present were her mother, Carolyn Hyde and sister and brother, Amy and Tim.

A guest this past week at the Russell Wilson home on Elwell Road was Mrs. Wilson's aunt, Mrs. Naome Starkey, of Napoleon, Ohio.

Mrs. Russell Seaman was hostess for the regular meeting of Ypsilanti Chapter DAR at her home on Savage Road Sept. 15, with 15 members present. Co-hostesses were Esther Deering and Eleanor Crockett.

Speaker for the evening was a member, Mrs. Shirley Burgoyne of Ann Arbor. It being Constitution Week, she chose her topic to be the "Constitution of the United States." A light lunch was served after the meeting.

Dick and Beverly Ludwick of Romulus and Dorothy Kellas of Margery Street were among the members of the Strand-Weeks Club, OES., who met at the home of Mildred and Maury Beers in Westland, Sept. 18.

Friends and acquaintances of William Jones, 33, of Romulus will be interested to hear that he is doing well since his June 20 bone marrow transplant. His sister, Susan Merschat of Kalkaska, was a donor.

A leukemia victim, Jones was in University of Kentucky Hospital in Lexington for two months and, since his release, has been in and out during the past month.

His wife, Cathy, is with him in Lexington and his school-age daughters, Julie and Cindy, are with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Jones in Romulus.

Study Club members attend annual confab

Six members of the GFWC Belleville Woman's Study Club attended the 65th Annual Convention of the Southeast District Michigan State Federation of Women's Clubs. President Marge Emerson, treasurer Yvonne Harner, Arlene Smith, Mary Claire Ellward, Avis White and Wilma Tator were among the 122 GFWC members, district-wide, who met Sept. 20 at Fairlane Manor in Dearborn.

Southeast President Mrs. Stanley Gutt presided at the convention, morning hours of which were devoted to District business. One of the highlights was a short talk by HOBY Award Winner Tony Leach of Cass Tech High School who was the Michigan HOBY delegate to the GFWC National Convention in Orlando, Fla.

Mrs. Robert Anderson, the luncheon speaker, chose as her topic "A Salute to Volunteers" and was able to inspire the delegation to live up to the GFWC theme, "Unity in Diversity - Michigan Volunteers Work for Harmony." Mrs. Anderson is well known in the district for her many hours of diversified volunteer work.

Results of the election of officers were announced, and Mrs. Mary Claire Ellward of Belleville was re-elected to the Girlstown Board of Directors as a representative of the GFWC Southeastern District.

Reunion prompts trip to Pennsylvania

Mrs. Loretta E. Lee and grandson, Walter Rochowiak, were in Washington, Pa. recently to attend the Szalek family reunion Sept. 4 at the Red Fox Lodge. Enroute they had stopped in Euclid, O. to pick up an aunt, Mrs. Teresa Szalek, who also attended.

Some 150 were present from Michigan,

Ohio and Pennsylvania including other local residents, Mrs. Joyce Rochowiak and daughter, Colette, and Brian McClinton who arrived Sept. 2 for the occasion.

New officers were elected, there was fun for all and much reminiscing. The 1984 get-together will once again be held on the Sunday before Labor Day.

— Harvest winter squash and pumpkins before frost and after the fruits have matured and formed a hard rind. Exposure to low temperatures will damage their skins and shorten their life in storage.

— Remove the raspberry canes that fruited this year, and thin weak or broken canes and prune out diseased ones.

— Save fuchsia, coleus, geranium, impatiens and fibrous-rooted begonia plants from frost and enjoy them all winter. Before frost, dig plants out of the garden, cut the tops back by half and pot in a well drained potting mix. Check and treat for insect problems and diseases before taking plants indoors.

— Dig chives, parsley and other garden herbs and plant them in containers for a winter windowsill herb garden. Harvest remaining herbs and dry them where they won't be exposed to heat or direct sunlight.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

By John Brimble

Elegant luncheon salad mixes diced apple and an equal amount of diced camembert cheese. Add a sprinkling of chopped walnuts and bind with mayonnaise. Sensational with black bread and lettuce.

If you're going to use whipped cream to fill or frost a cake, beat in a little powdered sugar to stabilize the cream.

Success tip: use unwaxed dental floss to tie roulades or for other kitchen "sewing." It's stronger than string and won't mark meat.

To spread any filling evenly, spoon even mounds across the first layer, then smooth with a spatula.

Choosing the best: cabbage should be heavy in relation to its size, with three or four green outer leaves. Avoid heads with yellowing leaves, splits, or softness.

Choosing the best: for a delicious meal, it's Captain Nemo's.

Cause celebre Huron has found one

History has taught monarchs never to give "the masses" a cause.

Apparently, Browning-Ferris Industries and Environmental Management Systems, which has dreams of constructing a solid and toxic waste landfill one day near Will-Carleton and the I-275 in Huron Township never studied history.

They gave Huron residents a "cause" and now the residents are up-in-arms and fighting mad about the proposed landfill. So mad that last Tuesday they even taxed themselves to raise money to fight the companies.

On September 20, Huron approved a two-year 2-mill tax hike that will produce some $380,000 in revenues specially earmarked for what township officials and residents view as a long and drawn-out court battle with EMS and the Browning-Ferris Industries.

The star in this playlet, Huron officials hope, will be attorney Thomas G. Plunkett, who they have hired to plead the case in the courts. Plunkett earned that right when he successfully brought home a favorable verdict against another landfill company that was seeking a hazardous site permit in Groveland Township.

There are approximately 10,000 residents in this small community noted for its apples and "Applefest". And when they celebrate their annual festival on October 1 you can bet a lot of them will be bragging about how they approved the millage.

And rightfully so.

There are many communities who wish they could stop the Department of Natural Resources from issuing dumping permits in their area, but Huron Township is the first to say that they are ready to fight back and are putting their money where their mouth is.

In the meantime, a State Public Health Subcommittee, which is chaired by Representative Curtis Hertel, will convene at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, at Huron High School, 32044 West Huron River Drive to receive testimony from concerned citizens.

The committee is seeking a one-year moratorium on the issuance of waste disposal permits by the DNR.

That one year moratorium, we believe, may give the state, the DNR and those areas singled out by landfill companies for toxic waste sites enough time to find a solution to a precarious problem.

If man can solve the intricate problems of landing on the moon, then he surely should be able to solve his problems on earth.

Please notice the spelling of Mr. Grajek's name. Hopefully, if our jinx is broken it will be spelled Grajek...not Grajeck, not Grajeu, not Grajeuck or any other strange derivation concocted in typewriters and typesetting machines while an unsuspecting journalist's concentration lapses.

Grajek has been patient indeed while he has been the victim of a series of coincidences and circumstance the likes of which are rarely experienced. We have misnamed, misspelled and mislabeled him on our pages more times than would seem possible.

It hasn't been enough that we have seemed to consistently rearrange the letters comprising his surname, no matter if we were discussing his retirement, his candidacy or promotions to fill a vacancy his leaving the Westland Fire Department created. No matter the subject, Grajek rarely appeared correctly in print. We went so far recently as to inadvertently list another man's children as his family in biographies of the Westland City Council primary election candidates.

And Grajek accepted it with grace. He phoned our office, explained the mistake and listened to our rather inadequate explanation with the patience of a diplomat and the grace only maturity brings.

We do make errors, although we fight to prevent that occurrence. We battle for accuracy and consistency of style like St. George pursued his dragon...but alas, we do, like all mortals, occasionally meet defeat.

When that defeat continues to involve one person, such as Mr. Grajek, however, we have to admit that he is a victim of an ancient and secret journalistic calamity...coincidence.

Mr. Grajek, we apologize. We will take special care to see that we do not misspell your name again. And with our apologies go our gratitude and a large measure of respect.

Grace and patience are qualities too many lack.

Health Education needs a citizen's forum

"Health Education Needs - A Citizen's Forum" initiates the second of three phases of a unique health promotion program which Oakwood Hospital is implementing in western Wayne County.

The objective of the program, which was implemented after Oakwood received a $232,700 grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek earlier this year, is to help the community better identify and respond to its health care needs.

The program, with its orientation toward preventive health care, will be conducted over the next three years.

The first phase of the program, which emphasized community involvement, was completed this summer when area residents, hospital-based professionals, and community leaders were interviewed. With the survey results and other information providing a foundation, the second phase, a series of three town meetings, begins next month.

The first forum will be held Thursday, Oct. 13, at the downriver regional campus of Wayne County Community College, 21000 Northline Road, Taylor, from 7 to 9 p.m. This town meeting affects residents living in Lincoln Park, Allen Park, Southgate, Grosse Ile Township, Taylor, Trenton, Woodhaven, Wyandotte, Riverview, and Brownstown Township.

Another forum will be presented Tuesday, Oct. 18, at the Wayne County Intermediate School District building, 33500 Van Born Road, Wayne, from 7-9 p.m. Residents in the following cluster of municipalities will be affected: Canton, Huron Township, New Boston, Sumpter, Belleville, Van Buren, Romulus, Garden City, Inkster, Wayne, and Westland.

The third forum will be held Monday, Oct. 24, at the Dearborn Civic Center, 15801 Michigan Ave., Dearborn, from 8-10 p.m. Citizens from Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Melvindale, Redford Township, and Detroit will participate in this town meeting.

"This is decision-making time toward laying the foundation for what kinds of community education programs this hospital will offer," said principal investigator Max L. Lichter, M.D., director of Oakwood's Department of Community Health Education. "Without the participation of citizens we will be unable to do this."

"We need their thoughts, ideas, and priorities regarding programs."

The formation of three or four pilot health promotion programs for communities in western Wayne County is the last phase of the total program. Such programs will be geared toward meeting local needs in each cluster of municipalities.

During the first phase, persons interviewed included 355 residents in more than 20 municipalities, 138 hospital-based professionals, and around 50 community leaders.

Common information desired included individual and family health status; significant health problems or serious health hazards as perceived by those interviewed; who should do something about these problems; what Oakwood might be able to do; and sources of health information and topics about which more information is desired.

"People were very thoughtful in their responses," said Patricia Arens, project director. "Based on their answers, we have discovered a high level of interest in both individual and family health."

Area residents, hospital-based professionals, and health agency representatives, who provide services in each cluster of municipalities, will attend the town meetings, she said.

Each forum will be moderated by a chairman, with Lichter and Mrs. Arens discussing the survey results, plus data on death and disease in each municipality. Then participants will break up into small groups to prioritize specific health needs as part of this "community diagnosis" approach.

The information gathered from each forum will be considered by members of Oakwood's Community Health Education Advisory Committee, with a total of around 30 representatives being selected during the town meeting phase.

Recommendations on three or four pilot programs will be made by the committee to the Department of Community Health and Health Education. As planned, specific pilot programs will be implemented beginning in February 1984.

Because space is limited, pre-registration for participation in each forum is requested. For more information, call 593-7947.

In my particular case, it's like biting off the hand that feeds ya.

But, for thousands of students it is "freedom of choice."

That's what the latest ruling by the Attorney General's Office does. Frank Kelley apparently wants to break up a monopoly when he issued the following warning.

In a press release, Kelley warned a Livonia photography company, H.A. Powell Studios, and the Livonia School District that they face a lawsuit if they do not stop the alleged violation of the Michigan Trusts, Monopolies and Combinations Act.

Kelley's "cease and desist notice" informed the parties involved "that they are violating anti-trust law by requiring students to have their senior picture sitting done at Powell Studios in order to be included in a graduating composite picture provided by Powell to the school district, or for the student to receive a print of a composite class picture."

"The conduct," Kelley further stated, "would result in any senior students who chose to have their sitting performed by other photographers, not having their pictures or names included within the composite picture the school district would hang in the school representing that year's graduating class."

But what about composites made by a studio for kindergarten? First grade? Second and third and right up to the senior class? There are composites made for all grades usually taken by one photographer. The Attorney General doesn't address this question.

Kelley concluded with this statement: "That the conduct alleged was a violation of the spirit and intent of the recently amended school code which provides that a student has the option of choosing a photographer other than the contracting photographer for pictures to be used in the school's yearbook."

It would be interesting to see how the school districts will put together these class composite pictures in the future.

There probably will be a lot of missing faces.

And here's a note from Eve Silberman, our reporter from Belleville:

Justin Emerson, Belleville's marryin' mayor, heard the "I do's" for the 400th time on Tuesday. The young couple, Cathy Knight and Michael Cook from Ypsilanti, were noticeably nervous during the five minute ceremony. The mayor, stayed calm.

This was in contrast to the first ceremony he performed some six years (and 399 couples) ago.

"I couldn't tell you now what the first couple looked like," Mayor Emerson said. "But I know I was a lot more scared than the bride and groom. It was a wonder I made it through the ceremony."

Since then, the mayor has become a veteran of the marrying business, tying the knot for couples young and old in the city hall meeting room. It's a 'favorite part' of the job," he said.

Some ceremonies stand out...the man who wouldn't take his cowboy hat off during the ceremony, the pregnant bride whose two children clung to her skirts as she recited her vows. "You see all kinds of folks," the mayor acknowledged.

"Many people are here for their second or third marriage," he added. They're a little blasé. They just want to pay their $15 fee ($25 on weekends) and make it legal."

Newcomers to the altar, Cathy and Michael held hands nervously during the ceremony and beamed with satisfaction (and relief) when the mayor congratulated them afterwards. How do they feel about being Couple Number 400? "Proud," said Michael. "And we get a picture," said Cathy.

Why vandalize our schools?

EDITOR -- I am a concerned student from P.D. Graham Elementary School in the Wayne-Westland School District. The Cub Scouts planted plum trees and grass near our gym this spring. The PTA also planted large maple trees in the front two years ago.

My dad and I drove by my school last evening to find that many of these trees had been vandalized. Some trees were stripped of all branches and several were broken off at ground level. How could someone do this sort of thing to school property? They were put there to beautify our school -- not as play equipment.

The largest of these trees are in a boulevard in front of the school at the corner of Hix and Avondale. This area is easily seen from either road which is lined with homes. Someone would have to had seen some of this activity, as it would take quite awhile to dismember trees of this size. I would hope if someone did see this they would have reported it.

I feel sorry that the Cub Scouts and the P.T.A.'s funds have been wasted. We have a real need for trees and plant-life, as they not only look good but, they produce oxygen. Hopefully if these trees are replaced, neighbors and police will realize their value and help keep a protective eye on them.

Shooting down 747 was murder

EDITOR -- The time has come to let the Soviets know that we, the American people, are outraged by their barbaric actions on Sept. 1, 1983. Instead of waiting on the Federal Government to do something substantial, "we the people" should retaliate by a show of unity starting at the "grass roots" of America.

From the farmlands to the big cities, local communities must unite to a common stand against this Soviet aggression.

The cold-blooded killing of 269 passengers and crew of an unarmed Korean commercial jetliner is just totally unforgivable.

In my opinion the Boeing 747 could have been of Japanese, British, or American registry, because the peoples of many nations were murdered on flight 007.

It would not change my stand.

As an American I value human life, something the Soviets apparently see as expendable.

Local communities must unite and boycott all transactions with the Soviet Union. Keep in mind that individual effort can also contribute to this cause. Citizens should start writing their representatives in Congress to let them know how they feel about the massacre of those poor souls on flight 007.

In my opinion then, and only then, will we get the response out of Washington that we desire, in the sense of the statement "Action not words".

President Reagan's rhetoric is nothing but unacceptable without substantial sanctions against the totalitarian regime that wields power in Moscow.

As an American service member I am proud to be an American. And I stand by the ideals that made this nation great. I stand ready to give my all to my country and its people, I am entrusted to protect. I am also a concerned citizen, who believes that it is time we took a stand for what we know is right.

And what is right is justice for those victims of Korean Airlines Flight 007.

When person's life is endangered

EDITOR -- A medical emergency is one of the most frightening events that can happen in a person's life. Whether it is an accident, or a serious illness, our first contact with health care professionals will usually be the police, fire and ambulance emergency medical team.

They are all specialists trained to handle all unexpected illnesses and injuries that require immediate attention. Emergency personnel must be available 24 hours a day, every day of the week, Christmas and holidays included, to provide the care necessary for citizens in need.

Thousands of lives are saved each year by the many dedicated men and women who provide emergency medical care, and in their honor, September 18-24 has been declared Emergency Medicine Week.

I hope during this time, everyone will take a few moments to consider the difficult tasks we ask our ambulance, fire and police departments to do.

Thanks to all of you dedicated EMS personnel for helping to make our community a safer and better place to live.

Autistic story was touching

EDITOR - I was delighted to read ANP Staff Writer's Jerry DesHarnais' outstanding and excellent article concerning Group Homes, especially "The Home For the Autistic."

Mr. DesHarnais is a vital individual, who has an internal quality which is rarely found nowadays. This needs to be admitted and maintained as an example for all human beings, because human beings such as yourself are "servants" of the human race.

It's my pleasure to write this simple letter to thank you for your excellent and meaningful report.

Open letter to Wayne citizens

EDITOR -- I would like to share some thoughts with you this fall and some experiences that I've had in speaking to many individuals from outside our community.

Recently, in my social and political activities, I've had continued comments about how well our city has been progressing and about its general appearance, especially in the downtown area. All of us in the city administration and city council have been working very hard over the past many years, and it is personally pleasing to me that individuals are beginning to recognize our successes.

You will remember that it wasn't long ago that many buildings were vacant, and their appearance was displeasing to the community. I think it is with pride that we should note that most of our buildings are now commercially successful. Site plans are the first step in starting a new business in Wayne or redesigning an old one, and it should be noted that we have as many as 23 site plans before our planning commission and city council at this time for new and renovated businesses in Wayne. We have some special areas of concern still to be worked on and developed, but it is my feeling that the near future will bring success to our efforts in these areas as well.

Private citizens and public officials have extended their compliments to the city over the past few years. I think a great amount of the credit for this should go to the citizens at large for their support of the efforts put forth by the administration and council. We should extend our appreciation to those businesses and those professional and institutional people who have seen their way clear to invest in this community.

I share these thoughts with you because I believe that pride in the community in which you live helps the community to progress and gives you a feeling of personal satisfaction. I want to thank all of you who have worked with and supported the city, the businesses, and the public institutions in our town over the past years.

Sincerely,
Patrick J. Norton

reflections

Some wrinkles in life

I was sitting beside a friend at lunch the other day when she took out her compact, looked long and deeply into the mirror and then snapped it shut, exploding a four letter word!

It naturally shocked me. My kids have been grown up now for some time and I have reverted back to my normal innocence and vulnerable sensibilities.

I guess she saw how her explosion had affected me because she kind of laughed and said that she only cusses like that when she sees what time has done to her face.

I looked at her face and I couldn't see that it looked so bad.

Actually, I thought it looked pretty good, considering her age and all that, but when I told her that she took umbrage at my saying considering her age and she let go with another four-letter word.

"What are you so mad about?" I asked her, and she told me she was mad because she was getting old.

"I hate wrinkles," she shouted. "And I hate gray hair, and I hate the way tinted hair looks when the face is wrinkled. And I hate age spots, and I hate being old."

"But you aren't old, yet," I told her, and I was able to tell her that because I knew she was five years younger than me, and everyone knows that I'm not old.

"You aren't even a senior citizen, yet," I told her and that really got to her.

"I hate that term, too. I hate it when they ask you at the cash register if you want the senior citizen discount, and you aren't even old enough yet to get it!"

"Yeah," I answer, "but it's pretty good when you are old enough."

And then I had a flashback to last summer. My younger sister (by 13½ months) will never acknowledge that she can possibly be in that category, and it is easy for her, for she is one of those persons blessed with a youthful body, non-graying hair, and smooth skin. Even though she is fighting a debilitating illness, she still walks in youthfulness.

One afternoon as she was recuperating, we went out to lunch and decided to take in a movie. She said she would pay for the lunch and I could pay for the movie. At the counter there was a sign saying senior citizens could have a 10 percent discount, but she ignored it and paid the full price. At the movies there was also a sign; students and senior citizens, $2 full rate $4.

With my white hair flying I asked for two senior citizen tickets, while my sister cringed at my side. As we walked towards the entrance doors I said, "See that wasn't so bad, was it?"

"It was awful!" she shuddered. "And what was awful about it, was that they gave you the tickets without even questioning!"

I really don't take advantage of senior citizen discounts, unless I want to prove a point, because life has been good to me, and I don't really need it, and I don't think there should be discounts just because you are living long. I do think those discounts are wonderful for oldsters, who for one reason or another, are financially low, and I don't think anyone should be embarrassed to ask for them.

I do think, however, that those signs tend to draw a discriminatory line which says if you have reached this age then you must be taken care of, and it insinuates that your ability to contribute to society is at an end.

My friend who got downright nasty when she saw the wrinkles in her mirror was not being childish . . . she was being afraid. Because she knows that it is either wrinkles or the alternative, dying. It's not the fact that my sister has lived sixty-four years that boggles her, it's the knowledge that by accepting discounts it makes her feel old . . . and no one likes to feel old.

And that is the secret of a good, rich, full life, in spite of wrinkles and birthdays. If one feels young and reaches out to each new day with anticipation and excitement that that day may bring surprises, then wrinkles and birthdays won't mean much.

A positive approach to life, the ability to laugh at one's own idiosyncracies, the ability to be interested in each person one meets, really interested, can give richness to life, even when one has aches and pains, or is suffering from a debilitating illness. And the excitement of working towards a goal, no matter what it is, and no matter how old one is, gives life zest . . . and wrinkles won't matter.

Wrinkles are better than zitzy anyway, aren't they?

of it: "Group home".

She could spell "group home". She wrote laborious letters sometimes to her friends in the hospital and she always said, "I like it here in my group home," even though Charlie said, "You don't have to call it a 'group home'; you can just call it your home." She didn't want to hurt Charlie's feelings, but she went ahead and called it her "group home" anyway. She liked the sound of it.

She saw those very words in a newspaper headline once ("Residents angered by prospect of group home"), and she clapped her hands and squealed. But they were in among words she hadn't learned yet, so she just spelled out "group home" and forgot about the rest.

The girl on the bus

We had shared the same bus stop for several days. In all that time, we had smiled but never spoken.

Today she said, "I saw you put your purse down on the seat yesterday. You shouldn't do that. You should hold your purse."

"You're right," I said, "It's pretty careless of me."

"I know how to take the bus now," she half-mumbled.

"That's nice," I said, not knowing for sure whether she was talking to me.

She proceeded to describe in great detail the intricate processes involved with "taking the bus": Putting the exact fare into the box, saying "hello" to the driver, being careful about finding a seat ("Don't sit by the window. You can't get out easy.") hanging on to her purse, finding the landmark that tells her her stop is next.

The bus line was on a direct route to the workshop, where she spent six hours a day, five days a week fitting small parts into larger ones. Pennies per piece added up to a paycheck of a few dollars at the end of the week.

On Friday, when she received her check, she was even more careful to hang on to her purse. Charlie or Jill, one or the other, were always waiting for her, and as the bus rounded the corner she clapped her hands and squealed at the sight of them.

As they walked the half-block from the bus stop to their house, she would skip along ahead, yelling out and waving to anyone within calling distance.

Once in a while, one or two of the people she passed would surprise her and wave back. More often, they ignored her. Sometimes they shouted back to her and she thought they sounded angry.

"Are they mad at something?" she would ask, and either Charlie or Jill would answer, "Maybe they just had a bad day."

Once, a boy -- a teenager, around her age -- threw a milk carton in her direction and, as it hit the pavement nearby, its contents splashed up and splattered her dress.

"He better be more careful," she muttered, and walked on.

She liked the workshop, and the bus -- but she was always glad to be home. Each day when she came in the door, Timmy was waiting there to greet her. Timmy couldn't leave the house and he wanted to hear, the moment she came in, about the bus. Every day she told him. Timmy was her friend. The others who lived in her house were her friends, too: Angela and Raymond and Fred and Wendy. And, of course, Charlie and Jill.

She had lived in a home once before, long ago. Before the hospital. She liked homes better. She even liked the sound

'Lofty reading'

Children taking advantage of the loft are: Nicole Jasmund, Tara Caudill, Jason Wallace, John Middlebrooks, Ralph Cottenham, Jenny Frank and David Schmitt.

Quirk students have a special reading nook

Reading can become very lofty, as the children in Lilyan Carlson's second grade class at Quirk School in the Van Buren School District have learned. They have a new reading area called a "Loft."

The purpose of the construction is to encourage free reading and to provide a more private and quiet nook in an otherwise very public room. It is also an incentive to complete daily work to earn entrance to the Loft, says Mrs. Carlson.

"It's also fun for all to have something different to keep the spark kindled."

Mrs. Carlson's husband, Don, designed and built the reading Loft with her guidance. It is constructed with strength and mobility in mind, free standing, and can be completely disassembled and moved if need be.

The underneath area houses two bookcases (also constructed by Carlson). Two paper rolls are affixed under stairs and a chalkboard for the children's use is attached to the outer side which is also a privileged activity.

Materials for construction of the loft were purchased by the Carlsons.

Tara Caudill is reading on the loft while John Middlebrooks is climbing down the ladder.

4-H'ers to mark national week

Oct. 2 through Oct. 8 marks National 4-H week.

"Be a wearin' the green" during this designated period, 4-H officials urge.

Throughout the years 4-H has been known to the public as merely "Cows and cooking." However, 1983 4-H'ers have over 175 projects to choose from ranging from computers to crafts. 4-H is the largest growing youth program in the country.

If you are not currently a part or never have experienced 4-H, the organization has plenty to offer. The enrollment is ongoing, and officials are ready to recruit new members and leaders. A 4-H club is constituted by five or more members under the leadership of one adult leader. 4-H is ages 9-19.

There is something for everyone.

During the upcoming weeks the following events will be offered at the main center located at 5454 Venoy in Wayne. If you would like further information please call 721-6576.

Wednesday, October 12, 19, 26 — Series I Cooking Classes from 6:30-9 p.m. Includes soups and sauces, casseroles and apple treats — Cost $20 for series.

Saturday, October 15 — 4-H Today Moving Towards Tomorrow Conference Slated. 9-5 p.m. Classes offered are Creativity, Working Moms, Stress Management, Parenting Skills, Coping with Teens, Assertiveness and Resume Writing for Volunteers. There is a $5 registration fee which includes lunch.

October 28, 29 and 30 — 4-H Haunted House 6:00-10:30 p.m. $1 admission.

November 9, 16 and 23 — Cooking Classes — Series II. Includes cookies, candies, breads and quick breads; $20 cost.

November 18 and 19 — Craft and White Elephant Sale.

Education, will speak on the operation and needs of the school and will answer questions from the floor afterwards.

BELLEVILLE — A yard sale, sponsored by Cub Scout Pack 924 of Elwell School, will be held from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Oct. 8 at 48610 Willis Road, between Carr and Lohr Roads.

BELLEVILLE — An "Exploring Law Enforcement as a Career" open house, sponsored by the Van Buren Township Police Department, will be held at 7 p.m. Oct. 26 at the Township Hall. The program, open to any student aged 14-21, will "explore" all aspects of law enforcement. Those interested may contact Cindy at 699-2001 weekdays between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

BELLEVILLE — The 93rd annual birthday dinner celebration of Belleville Chapter No. 73, OES, will be held at 6:30 p.m. Oct. 5 at the Belleville Masonic Temple. Past Matrons and Past Patrons will exemplify the degrees. For reservations, call 697-2211 or 697-8113.

BELLEVILLE — Area poet Ed Kind will give a recitation of his work at the Fred C. Fischer Library at 7 p.m. Sept. 28 (tonight.) The audience will be limited to adults, high school age and up. For further information on this free program, call 699-3291.

ROMULUS — A linen bingo, sponsored by the John M. Wahl Corp. #87, will be held at 1:30 p.m. Oct. 2 at the Romulus VFW Post 9568, 39270 Huron River Drive. Refreshments will be available. Proceeds will be used for the benefit of veterans.

BELLEVILLE — Dedication ceremonies of Van Buren Township's first two State of Michigan Historical Markers will take place at 3 p.m. Oct. 16 at the old Van Buren Township Hall on Main Street. The event is co-sponsored by the township and the GFWC Belleville Junior Study Club. The markers honor the old township hall and the French Landing Dam. Free refreshments will be served. All interested persons are invited to attend.

"Next Position Please" (Epic)

About six years ago, I had no doubts that Cheap Trick was the greatest rock'n'roll band in existence. They had just followed their tremendous self-titled debut album with an unqualified masterpiece, "In Color (and in Black & White)."

Then, the downward slide began, first with "Heaven Tonight," a pretty good album, but not as consistent as either of the first two LPs. The "Live at Budokan" album that propelled the group into fame and fortune wasn't even supposed to be released in this country, and while it's a good concert record, it was all old hat to those of us that had been there from the beginning.

The bottom fell out with "All Shook Up," a simply horrible, boring, self-indulgent album that fizzled quickly.

Then, surprisingly enough, the band released "One on One," which showed them hot on the comeback trail last summer and on the road to promote it. The LP, while flawed, is essentially a very good one — half great — but it led to "Next Position Please," their newest album, and their best since the days of "In Color."

Beginning with the twirling "I Can't Take It," this record gets as hot as the band is able, which is mighty hot indeed. Producer Todd Rundgren has aptly hit the mark square on the tip of guitarist Rick Nielson's turned-up baseball cap.

Heartthrob Robin Zander has rarely sounded better than he does on "Younger Girls," a bouncing rhythm-guitar dominated tune faintly reminiscent of the Stones' "Shattered" (and if Epic doesn't release this as a single, heads — and jobs — should roll!). "Don't you ever grow up," sings Zander, adding in a sleazy, more sophisticated growl "Sweet young thing... not so innocent!"

In all, of the album's 12 songs, only two don't make the grade. "3-D" is a good enough guitar work-out for Nielson, but there's not enough of a hook for my admittedly pop-pish tastes, and "Borderline," which is so dull I can't even think of how it goes as I write this. Still, that leaves 10 winners, which is about eight or nine more than the average LP seems to have these days.

IMPORTANT! If at all possible, I'd suggest you buy the cassette rather than the album, because there are two extra songs included that are at least as good as anything on the album. Luckily for those of you without tape players, the songs "Don't Make Our Love a Crime" and "You Talk Too Much" will be featured on the flip sides of 45s, but they definitely should not be overlooked.

The LP's first single is a remake of the Motors' "Dancing The Night Away," which works extremely well (look for a video soon on MTV), but it is still the originals: "You Say Jump," "Y.O.Y.O.Y.," "Won't Take No For An Answer," as well as the aforementioned that prove that Cheap Trick is back. Don't ask "Y." Just be glad.

Affordable dining

John Kouris (center), owner of Tina's Western House in Belleville, has brought his version of affordable family dining to the area. The new restaurant, located at 604 E. Huron River Drive, features Greek, American and Western dishes with no entree priced more than $4.99. Lunch and dinner specials are offered weekdays for $2.89 and include such popular selections as beef goulash, corned beef and cabbage, beef stew, baked short ribs, fish and chips, macaroni and cheese and beef tenderloin tips. Waitresses Donna Hovey (left) and Arlene Stover pose at the salad bar, which is included with all dinners. Tina's Western House is open from 6 a.m. until 10 p.m. daily and features discount prices for senior citizens and children under 10 years of age.

Janovsky performs on stage in Texas

Chris Alan Janovsky of Canton will perform in Sandy Wilson's musical "The Boyfriend" through Oct. 9 at St. Edward's University in Austin, Tex.

A junior at St. Edward's, Janovsky is a 1981 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School, where he was recipient of the Unsung Hero Award as an active member of the Thespian Troupe. He will portray Bobby Van Husen in "The Boyfriend."

Janovsky, the son of Charles and Carol Janovsky of Canton, has appeared in several theatrical productions at St. Edward's, including "The Crucible," "Taming of the Shrew" and "Equus."

St. Edward's theatre program has attracted many guest performers to work with students in acting, stagecraft, lighting, directing and theatre history courses. Among those to participate have been William Shatner, Pernell Roberts, Leonard Nimoy, Stephanie Powers and Noel Harrison.

The university is a Catholic, independent liberal arts institution with more than 2,400 students from 44 states and 32 foreign countries.

Guild offers comedy

The comedy "Star Spangled Girl" will be presented by the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford at 8 p.m. Oct. 7 and 8, 14 and 15 and 21 and 22 at the Guild Playhouse, 15138 Beech Daly, south of Five Mile in Redford.

Tickets, priced at $5, may be reserved by calling 522-8057. Reservations are recommended.

cable beat . . . by dennis fassett

Over the past six weeks, I have tried to provide a brief overview of the history of CATV industry. It is, of course, necessary to understand where this industry is coming from in order to make a judgment relative to its present 'flight plan.'

You have heard, for example, how the CATV industry had its beginnings in the hearts of cable entrepreneurs . . . men and women more interested in results than methods. You have also heard that the industry began as an off-shoot of broadcast television, but with the advent of communications satellites, quickly entered the programming business as well. You have also heard that cable was first unregulated, later mildly regulated, still later more heavily regulated, and is now again heading toward an era of deregulation.

But what you have not heard; how the industry has often mislead and misinformed. How early cable executives used the promise of technology to line their pockets. In coming months you will also learn about the franchising process, its designed confusion, and how city leaders are mislead in expectations of cable services.

Cable Television, it has been said, represents one of the few remaining business opportunities with tremendous but unregulated profit potential. And because of the profit potential, the CATV industry has attracted some who have less than honorable business intentions. But this does not intend to imply that the CATV industry is any different than other fast-moving, high-profit venture . . . only that in order to understand the business, you must first understand the motives of the personnel involved.

You will also hear about new, and competing services now threatening to impact the carefully designed cable business plan . . .

services you may take advantage of, without cable. You will also hear about new industries targeting smaller population groups, and contracting to provide small cable systems to serve small independent groups of homeowners or renters.

It is estimated that the "normal" resident of a community attended fewer than two city council meetings in his life in his city. For that reason, it is not likely that you have heard the impassioned pitch by cable executives for your city's franchise. But your elected city officials have heard all they will ever want to hear about cable by the time a franchise is awarded. And of course, that is a part of the plan.

But before we get into any discussion regarding the cable franchising process, it is critical that you understand that "the cable television industry is NOT technology . . . it is people." A transistor made the small radio possible, but people had to invest the time and money to design and manufacture it. And it is people who make the difference in the successful application of technology to serve society's needs. But technology is absolute . . . it doesn't mislead or misinform, only people can. And the people within the CATV industry have worked hard at practicing this art . . . and it might be added, successfully as well.

What is cable? What does it do, and what is it capable of doing in the hands of the "right" people?

Before any elected city official begins the process of evaluating proposals for a city cable system, he or she must understand that cable is merely a method of delivering television signals to the homes of city residents for a monthly fee. That is all it is. The grandest network of coaxial cable will not create programming, it will not create services and it will not even be a cable system. Only people effectively utilizing that coaxial cable network can accomplish any of these things.

The great mystery of cable television is no mystery at all . . . only, cable executives would try to convince you that the business is complex; not possible for the non-cable person to understand. But a look at the men and women involved in the industry reveals that few, if any of those cable people trying to sell you their system, have knowledge of technology beyond the knowledge possessed by the young video junkie in front of that quarter-eating machine he operates so well.

The CATV industry is not technology, it is people, people willing and able to deliver what they promise when you sign the contract. And everyone knows that any contract is only as good as the people signing it.

Next week, the cable franchising process.

Kreizberg to conduct Livonia Youth Symphony

The Livonia Youth Symphony Society, with members from 40 Detroit-area communities, has recently announced the appointment of Yakov Kreizberg as its Music Director and Conductor of its senior orchestra.

Mr. Kreizberg, who has evoked extravagant praise wherever he has performed, began his musical studies at age five in his native Russia, and by 15 was studying orchestra conducting with Maestro Ilya Musin at the Leningrad Conservatory. He continued his studies in New York, graduating with honors and receiving both Bachelor and Masters Degrees in Orchestral Conducting from Mannes College of Music. While at Mannes, he founded and conducted the Mannes Chamber Orchestra and served as Assistant Conductor of the Mannes Symphony Orchestra.

As quoted in Los Angeles newspapers, Mr. Kreizberg is a "charismatic conductor with theatrical flair and daring ideas . . . whose orchestra seemed utterly mesmerized by its leader."

The Livonia Youth Symphony Society, which is beginning its 26th season, maintains three orchestras, with nearly 300 musicians ranging in age from six through college age.

Belleville blanks Romulus for 1st win
Tigers get Wayne after Zebras' initial loss

After two heartbreaking defeats, Belleville High and Coach Michael Colletta have their first football victory of the young 1983 campaign.

But victory No. 2 will have to come at the expense of a tough Wayne Memorial team which Colletta and the Tigers will get on the rebound after the Zebras lost a cliffhanger, 12-10, to Dearborn Fordson.

"This is the best Wayne football team I have seen since taking over this job," said Colletta who has coached Belleville for the past five years. "They play great defense and their quarterback (Mike Quartuccio) has to be the best in the area."

Wayne Coach Floyd Carter also had some kind words for Colletta and the Tigers.

"They (Belleville) have played some tough opponents, and anytime you can hold a Monroe team to six points you have to be good. We have always respected Colletta and his staff's coaching ability."

Wayne will host the 7:30 p.m. Friday contest.

Romulus became Belleville's first victim. The Tigers struck for touchdowns in the first three quarters to bury the Eagles 28-0 as Leonard Armstrong rushed for 159 yards (117 of those in the first half) and scored two touchdowns in the rout. He scored late in the first period on a four-yarder then picked up his second TD on a one-yard plunge after the Tigers deceived the Romulus defense with a fake field goal.

Stopped on the Eagle 35-yard line late in the initial half, the Tigers lined up for the three-pointer, but quarterback Bob Courter, instead of booting the ball, tossed it to Tyrone Bester who picked up 18 yards and the first down. Armstrong later scored from the one.

Earnell Hailes got the Tigers on the scoreboard in the third quarter on a 3-yard off tackle sprint that polished off a 67-yard drive which included two pass completions from Courter to Bester, worth seven and 12 yards respectively.

Late in that same quarter, Courter teamed up with Ron Schubert, who went up with the Romulus defender for the ball and after a juggling act, hauled in the pigskin and took it for a 44-yard touchdown jaunt.

Armstrong had an excellent day on offense as he accounted for 159 yards on 17 attempts and Hailes was called upon nine times and amassed 96 yards. Courter was on target with six of his 13 passes which netted 114 more yards and one TD, while Bester, a tight end, came through with his best game of the season.

Bester caught four passes for 46 yards.

Belleville's Bob Tansey, a 5-11, 178-pound junior nose guard, accounted for 20 solo tackles and teammate Jimmy Budd had nine, three of which were sacks of the quarterback.

Romulus coach Norb Glover said that costly mental breakdowns paved the way for the lopsided score.

"But we have a lot of inexperienced players and some key personnel nursing injuries including Darrin Grandison and Jerome Austin who are the mainstays of our offense."

"Belleville was hungry," Glover said, "and they played like they were. Unfortunately we weren't."

Glover and the Eagles open their inaugural Metro Conference campaign on Saturday at 1 p.m. at Taylor Center, a team that Glover says can be 'real tough.'

"Taylor Center has a tradition of fielding good teams," he said, "and we have to get out of our doldrums to get ready for them."

Franklin drops 'a wild one'

It just wasn't in the books Saturday for Livonia Franklin and Coach Armand Vigna.

The Patriots should have seen the proverbial handwriting atop of the Pontiac Silverdome when two touchdowns were called back on them.

Those untimely infractions plus Garden City's Jim Gilland's spectacular 80-yard kickoff return for a touchdown in the last quarter helped engineer a 20-14 setback and a Cougar victory over the defending Northwest Suburban Conference champs.

Vigna was perturbed over the calls that took 12 points off the scoreboard for his team, "but that's the way the refs saw them and there's little you can do," he noted.

"We lost a real wild one," Coach Vigna continued. "We beat them in the stats, but lost to them where it counts the most, the score."

Late in the second quarter Franklin quarterback Greg Drebecki broke loose for a 29-yard TD run that was called back because of a holding penalty and midway in the third period the Patriots' lost Randy Hurst's 28-yard touchdown run due to a clipping infraction.

The two teams were scoreless for the first 12 minutes, then 3:12 into the second quarter Drebecki strung together a 11-play, 77-yard drive that was climaxed by the Pat quarterback sneaking into the end zone from the one. The Pats missed the extra point attempt.

After the ensuing kickoff, Garden City's John Ramano came right back with a 10-play series which wound up with a 25-yard TD pass to split end Dale Bishop.

The Cougars also failed to cash in on the conversion.

The score didn't change until the third period when, after trading punts, Ramano again clicked on a pass, this time to Mike Roffi which covered 44-yards and netted the Cougars the go-ahead six-points. The Ramano-to-Bishop combination paid off for the two-pointer.

Franklin tied it up with 3:34 left in the game after Tim Gabel intercepted a Ramano pass at the Garden City 35-yard line. In three plays Drebecki had the Pats in the end zone, and he also made good on the two-point conversion thanks to a lob pass to Marty Klevin.

However, Gilland caught the Patriot defense asleep on the ensuing kickoff and managed to slip through for what was the decisive TD, an 80-yarder.

Hurst, with 118-yards on 23 carried and one TD, sparked Franklin's offense, while Drebecki attempted 22 passes and managed to complete only four for 54 yards. The Pats received outstanding defensive performances from sophomore Brad Norrid, who handled the strong safety with authority and Gabel, a linebacker, did his job well.

Franklin had an overwhelming edge in first downs (15-6) and also rushing yardage (158-25), however, Garden City won the aerial war 181 to 54 yards. Kim Walley and Gabel recovered Cougar fumbles.

Vigna and the Patriots will attempt to recover from their first league setback at the expense of Redford Thurston, a team that is much improved over the past two seasons.

"They have a new coach who is really getting them in shape," Vigna said. "We have to be ready for them."

On the run

With a Garden City defender in close pursuit, Franklin's Rob Drabicki (18) is seeking a fault in the defense. Although Drabicki and the Patriots dominated the stats, Garden City had the edge where it counts — on the scoreboard as the Cougars ended a 2-game losing streak 20-14.

The Silverdome

Two area teams traveled to the Pontiac Silverdome last Saturday and came away with mixed results: Westland John Glenn knocked off Redford Union thanks to a come-from-behind rally (See Page C-5), while defending Northwest Suburban Conference champ, Livonia Franklin, bowed to nemesis Garden City.

Wayne to host benefit cage game

The Wayne-Westland Community Schools are sponsoring a "Special Olympics" basketball game to help raise funds for the organization.

The game will pit some of the current and past professional athletes of the NFL, NBA and USFL against coaches and teachers from the University of Detroit, University of Michigan, Wayne State University, Eastern Michigan, Wayne and Westland John Glenn high schools.

The game will be staged 7 p.m., Wed., Oct. 12 at Wayne Memorial High School. There is a $5 donation and the proceeds will be donated to the Wayne-Westland Special Olympics program.

Some of the stars who will be on hand to play and sign autographs include: Dave Bing, Lem Barney, Mike Lucci, Charlie Sanders, Mel Farr, Roy Jefferson, John Rowser, Mike Bass, Jim Thrower, Novo Bojovic, Bill Yerby, Mike Dean, Charlie Coles, Stan Allen, Charlie Parker, Don Sicko and Chris Wolf.

For further information, contact Ann Bass, executive director of the Special Olympics by telephoning 595-2069 or 595-2066.

Glenn rallies past Redford Union, 20-12

Rockets to face Garden City next

If there ever was a perfect prescription for a football team to come up with a much needed victory, then the Rockets of Westland John Glenn certainly found theirs last Saturday afternoon.

Making their third appearance in the Pontiac Silverdome in two years, the Rockets came away with a hard-earned 20-12 victory over Northwest Suburban Conference rival Redford Union. The victory for the Rockets was their third in a row in the Dome and raised their season record to 2-1. Redford Union's record dropped to 0-3.

Coach Chuck Gordon was pleased at the play of his team, especially in the second half when they scored two touchdowns to put the game away.

"It was one of the most hard-fought wins since I've been coaching. It feels good because we had to work hard in this one."

Only a week removed from a tough, last-second loss to Northville, the Rockets entered the game with some new faces.

Gordon brought sophomore tailback Tony Boles (6-1, 170) up from Junior Varsity where he gained nearly 300 yards and scored seven touchdowns in two (6-0, 188, Jr.) who caught the ball at the five-yard line and raced into the end zone.

Again, the try for the two-point conversion failed and RU was sitting on a 12-7 lead at halftime.

Glenn left the field to their

games, and installed him at tailback on the varsity level.

That move allowed Craig Thornton to switch to fullback to take advantage of his inside running skills. Thornton also was inserted into the defensive backfield.

"Our backfield played well for the first time together. Boles gives us a new dimension. Thornton played a very solid game," said Gordon.

Redford Union, however, dominated the first half of action as they unleashed their own stable of running backs on the Rockets. Bob Macek (Sr., 6-0, 179), Keith Manus (Sr., 5-9, 183) and Rick Holme (Sr., 5-8, 165) combined to cause the Rockets defense one giant headache. Macek was especially tough, as he carried the ball 10 consecutive times on the first Panther drive.

At 3:11 of the first quarter, Macek ran it in from the four yard line. The attempted two-point conversion failed and RU led, 6-0.

Early in the second period, RU mounted another threat when Glenn's defense struck.

Thornton picked off a pass at the 34-yard line and set up the Rocket offense. With Boles carrying the ball most of the 66 yards, the Rockets found themselves in the end zone at 9:09 of the second quarter.

Boles culminated the drive with a 13 yard scamper for his first varsity touchdown. Chris Piazza was perfect on the extra point and the Rockets led, 7-6.

But the Panthers' defense took over and held Glenn scoreless the rest of the half as their own offense attempted to get the lead back. R.U. did accomplish that mission at the 5:03 mark when Manus took the handoff from Holme, stopped at the 34-yard line and fired a pass to Don Angel lockerroom to discuss the situation. Gordon told his chargers that they "need better play on the offensive line, not to let Redford Union get the ball in good field position, and to sustain their blocks better."

When the Rockets came out at halftime to the strains of the Rocket fight song being played by the Marching Band, they were without their starting quarterback, Jeff Hawley. The 6-0 senior signal caller had been injured shortly before halftime, and in his stead was senior Doug Corbeil (5-10, 158).

After a 16-yard kickoff return by Dana Jones, the Rockets took the ball and moved it right down the field. Boles carried the ball for 73 yards on that drive, pushing him above 100 yards on the day. The speedy tailback would end up with 141 yards on the day, the eleventh highest rushing game in school history.

Corbeil found receiver Jeff Meixner in the right corner of the end zone for the touchdown. Piazza's extra point try was good and Glenn had regained the lead, 12-12.

Glenn's defense took over at this point as they held the Panthers in check and protected their slim lead. One by one, each member of the Rocket defense picked up the team with big play after big play. If it wasn't Scott Lucas' tackle of Macek on a key fourth down situation, a sack of the RU quarterback by Tom Forchione, then it was constant harassment of the Panthers by Mike Leck and Mike Miller.

Coach Gordon was pleased with the play of his defense saying, "The defense was much improved, especially in the second half. The three interceptions were key factors. The one by Thornton led to a touchdown."

Finally, with 3:19 left in the game, the Rockets got their hand on the ball for the final time. Corbeil, who earlier had a 36-yard run wiped out by a penalty, carried the ball for nine yards to the RU 44-yard line. Then, Thornton took the handoff on the very next play and raced the rest of the way for the score and a 20-12 lead. The run was Thornton's longest of his varsity career.

Piazza's attempt for the extra point was wide (a rare occurrence for him) and RU had one last chance to tie the game and force an overtime period.

But a funny thing happened on the way to the end zone . . . linebacker Dan Strehl (5-11, 195, Sr.) stepped in front of a Holme pass and picked it off with 13 seconds left in the game, sealing RU's fate.

The Rockets find themselves in a three-way tie for first place in the Northwest Suburban League with North Farmington, 32-0 winners over Thurston, and Garden City, 20-14 winners over Livonia Franklin, after Saturday's action at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Glenn has a chance to break that tie tomorrow night when they face Garden City at GC at 7:30 p.m. Gordon, feeling better after the win over RU, said, "Garden City will be skying when we get there. They'll be playing at home for the first time, plus coming off that great win over the defending champ, Livonia Franklin. They've an excellent quarterback in John Romano. Anytime you have a quarterback like that, you're a threat. They are vastly improved over the first three years of the season."

Kitze, Schomer win Wayne 'tavern trot'

Two of the areas finest runners won the 1983 Wayne Tavern Trot held recently in conjunction with the Wayne Homecoming Festival. More than 100 runners answered the starting command on a clear and somewhat warm morning. The five-mile fun run, through three residential neighborhoods of Wayne, ended to the downtown business area.

Art Kitze, Jr. of Garden City was the first runner to cross the finish line with a time of 26:43, just 8 seconds off the course record established by Don Anderson in 1982.

The second runner to finish was Clifford Maycock Dorlin with a time of 27:49. Leading the women across the finish was Jackie Schomer of Westland with a time of 33:36, to finish 15th overall.

The Tavern Trot, a fundraiser for the John Glenn High School Cross Country program, grew considerably over the initial run in 1982. Race organizer, Ed Phillips noted there were about 40 percent more runners for the 1983 edition.

"The purpose of the race is to provide quality, local race to assist the Homecoming Festival, and make this an exciting event for the serious runner, the recreational runner, and the spectator."

"Once again the community showed excellent support for the Tavern Trot," said Phillips. "The numerous aid stations that were set up along the course by the people of Wayne were the most positive comment the runners noted at the end of the race. I think that we are over the hump and this race will continue to grow in the future."

After the race, the runners and their families enjoyed refreshments at the sponsoring Taverns, Jakes Bar, The Village Bar, and the Olde Wayne Saloon.

Ten Pin Topics

It takes time to get kinks out of the game

By JIM WRUBLEWSKI
ANP Special Writer

With the weather finally cooling down and a few league sessions behind us, there is no longer any doubt that the bowling season is here to stay.

For some of us a few aches and pains are further reminders that we are into the thick of it again.

In future columns we hope to bring you some hints which can help eliminate those aches and also develop a better game.

I will be gathering ideas and information from experienced bowling instructors and certified athletic trainers who are well versed in the varied aspects of this game and present their thoughts to you.

Before we get into the finer points I would like to tell you about a new youth league which is being formed in this area.

Hal Winter is spearheading efforts to organize a first class travelling league patterned after the Bonanza and Cecil Ward Leagues for rising young stars.

The league will travel to the five bowling centers in this area: (Wayne Bowl, Westland Bowl, Town 'N' Country, Super Bowl, and Fiesta Lanes) and will feature the better young bowlers with a minimum average of 140 for the girls and 150 for the boys.

A specific dress code and a code of conduct will be maintained to further enhance the league's image.

Sponsorship is also being sought to give the youngsters that professional look. Add all this together and you have something that everyone can be proud of.

The league, which will bowl on Sunday afternoon, is seeking young bowlers up to 20 years of age who are not bowling in adult leagues sanctioned by the ABC or the WIBC and must have at least the stated averages. Teams can consist of all boys, all girls, or mixed membership.

Hal can also use the help of interested adults to act as coaches and serve on the Board of Directors.

For additional information, contact Hal Winter at 459-5380 or Dan Altizer at 722-6169.

And you can keep your eyes on this column for the scoring highlights I'm sure will take place.

The ladies have entered the high score category at Westland Bowl with Nancy Hecht hitting 231 for a 622 total; Irene Howe finished with a 621 series; and Mary Hansen had a 241 game.

For the men, Larry Kilgore hit 278 and 668; Jim Bowman had 255-215 for 650; Dan Altizer finished with 644; Ron Ross rolled a 244; Curt Korow hit 240; and Chris Marinkovich had a 228 game for 599 to just miss the 600 series mark.

At Lodge Lanes, Rod Whittaker hit 226 only to fall one pin short to wife, Sue's 227 game; Lynn Lau put together 233 and 208 for 619; and Bob Johnson had 221 for 630.

In the Senior Citizen Circuit, Kloe Beck had 223 and 521; Justin (Mayor) Emerson hit 484; Carl Blozik finished with 507; Virgil Humphrey rolled 191 and 500; and Tom Stevens hit 182.

Wayne Bowl's highlights included Nancy Roth with a 600 series; Frank Slayton was impressive with a 271 game; Gary Gray hit 651; and Leon Smith Jr. finished with a 638 series.

Super Bowl scoring featured 156 average D. Blair who went 122 pins over in one game with 278 and 630 series; Dave Conti had a 242; Bob Smith hit 231; and Bob Jimmerson rolled a 220 game.

At Fiesta Lanes, Tony Kovacs rolled a 277 game and Jack Johnson totalled 713 to become eligible for the 700 invitational tournament to be held weekends in early October at Westland Bowl.

Over 30 hockey action

Teams are 'evenly balanced'

Despite unseasonal warm weather, the 1983-84 Wayne-Westland Over 30 hockey league began action last week.

And there will be a new sponsor in the field as Johnson's Bakery will suit up a team for this year's competition. However, there will again be 10 teams contending for top honors in a season that has a 22-game schedule.

All games will be played on Sundays, beginning at 5 p.m. at the Wayne Ice Arena.

The first three games on the new season ended in ties, indicating the teams are evenly matched.

Jake's Lounge had to settle for a 3-3 tie with Little Bill's Trophies. Little Bill's tallied twice in the final period. Tony Ianni scored twice for Little Bill's with Jerry Robertson accounting for the third goal.

Dave Milam and Larry Kafesch picked up two assist with Norm Beasley and Bill Creekmore receiving one assist.

Don Middaugh roused the net for a goal and picked up an assist for Jake's while Dave Zajac and Jake Davidson rounded out the scoring. Paul Briski received two assists while Mike McGraw earned one assist.

Johnson's Carbonic jumped off to an early 4-0 lead over Tastee Freez as newcomer Tom Mazorowicz tallied four times in the first period. Tastee Freez picked away and managed a 4-4 tie. Picking up assists on Mazorowicz's goals were Darryl Nowacki and Perry Toepfer.

Tastee Freez got on the scoreboard as Keith Middaugh scored twice while Mike Villmure tallied for a goal and an assist. Chuck Jennett scored the final goal with 6:54 remaining. Jim McMaster, Arnie Cox, Ken Carter, Marv Borycki and goalie Tim Vanderburgh checked in with one assist.

All Sonas Sports and McDago Pub battled to a 3-3 tie as Craig Averill tallied twice for All Sorts Sports. Bob Jones accounted for their remaining goal while John Kunz picked up two assist. Mike Beals, Jim O'Gozaly and Tom Schwartz finished with one assist.

Tom Bryans scored once and picked up one assist for McDago with Gary Pierce and Dennis Darnell tallying for a goal a piece. Ken Murray received two assists while Jim Creekmore finished with one assist.

Johnson's Bakery carded its first victory of the season by skating past Family Heating 7-4.

Dave Frankling led Johnson's with a hat trick; Rick Mullen and Phil Cerne scored a goal apiece and received an assist, while John McFaddin and George Motts tallied for a goal each.

Dale Fawkes received two assists; Jim McClure, Ken Howe, Errol Pulk and Chuck Heebsh picked up one assist.

John Ruggiero tallied twice for family heating along with Ron Wojewski. Wojewski also picked up one assist. Don Strauss, Nick Palise, Paul Cramer and Dan Kubany finished with one assist.

Futurama scored six times in the final period to secure a 7-3 win over Brock Builders. Jay Middaugh led the team with three goals; Ron Tyranski scored twice and received an assist; Mike Trudel rammed the net twice.

Dave Zielinski received three assists with Chuck Quint, Gene Tauriainen and Ron Swider finishing with one assist.

Brock's got on the scoreboard as Mike Adamson, Layne Cardinal and Tom DiLaura found the net. Cardinal also picked up an assist. Rick Wolkowicz, John Colligan, John Clearwood and Dennis LaPensee received one assist.

Looking to the games on Oct. 2: Little Bill's Trophies will take on All Sorts Sports at 4 p.m.; Family Heating will skate against Futurama at 5:15 p.m.; Brock Builders and Mic-Dago Pub, take the ice at 6:30 p.m.; Tastee Freez plays Jake's Lounge at 7:45 p.m., while Johnson's Bakery plays the nightcap against Johnson's Carbonic at 9 p.m.

The owners of Malarkey's Pub, Stevel Kasapis and Michael Scott, are planning to enlarge their facilities, and a prominent feature of the new addition is sure to be a trophy case to house the growing number of awards earned by the tavern's coed softball team.

Malarkey's, the reigning Metro-Detroit Amateur Softball Association title-holder, claimed top honors in tournaments in Grand Ledge and Laingsburg the first two weekends in September before successfully defending its crown in a United States Slow-Pitch Softball Association National Invitational Tournament last weekend in Petersburg, Virginia.

Last Year, Malarkey's was one of four undefeated teams which were awarded a share of the U.S.S.A. Dudley Hall of Fame Mixed National Tournament title in Virginia when rain forced cancellation of the three-day tournament on the final day.

This season, however, Malarkey's won the title out-right, posting a perfect 5-0 record. The locals downed Tribble Heating and Cooling of Cincinnati, 8-6; whipped the Y-Nots of Norfolk, Virginia, 12-3; dumped the Athletics of Hopewell, Virginia, 10-5; and bested Quality Meats of Richmond Virginia twice, 11-10 and 9-4.

"It's a very satisfying feeling," reflected Malarkey's Pub Manager John Kerr. "We felt we were going to win it last year, but it rained and we had to share the title. This year, we played well and we won it out-right. We've very pleased."

Phil LaPorte headed the offensive effort for Marl Malarkey's with a .765 effort, while Rob Berce hit .684, Lynn Putnam, Jim Charles and John Kerr each batted .611 and Jenny Johnson hit .579.

LaPorte, the club's pitcher, and Putnam, the team's left-center fielder were named the tournament's Most Valuable Players. Leftfielder Charles and first baseman Johnson were voted the tournament's outstanding defensive players.

Additional members of the team were Mary Woosley, Marsha Kerr, Barb Hardison, Nancy Guntow and George Juszczyc.

Two weeks ago, Malarkey's compiled five straight wins to take tops honors in the Looking Glass River Sportsman's Club Coed Tournament, and last weekend, Sept. 17-18, Malarkey's reeled off four straight victories to claim the Grand Slam Coed Tournament crown in Grand Ledge.

fumbles into scoring series and one of those came in the final five minutes of play.

Lorenzo Hailey led the Viking rushers with 65 yards on seven carries and Groce attempted eight passes and clicked on three for 40 yards. William McCall, a linebacker, Hall, at safety, cornerback Groce and nose guard Darrin Whitehead did an exceptional on defense.

The game was switched to Highland Park because Inkster's facility wasn't ready for its opener.

The Vikings are on the road again this Friday, clashing with league newcomer, Willow Run, at 7:30 p.m. James said that "Willow Run has another fast and capable team and if we don't eliminate our mistakes, it'll be a long night for us."

Dolphins set dates for swim tryouts

Tryouts for the winter session of the Wayne Recreation Dolphin Swim Club will be held at Wayne Memorial High School on Wed., Oct. 5, at 7:30 p.m.

Participation in the club is open to all boys and girls between the ages of 6 and 18 who live in the city of Wayne or the Wayne Memorial High School attendance area.

Intermediate swimming ability is preferred. This is the ability to swim one length of the pool.

Registration for former and/or regular members of the Dolphin Swim Club will be held at the Wayne Community Center beginning Monday, Sept. 26, through Friday, October 7, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Registration fees will be $30 a swimmer or $75 per family of three or more.

Dolphins' first day of practice will be Tues. Oct. 4, at 8 p.m. at the Wayne High Pool. Coaches for the 1983-1984 season are: Head Coach, Vickie (Brown) Bell and Assistant Coach, Scott Martin.

The Dolphin Swim Club will be competing in league dual meets and championship meets during their season. For the more adventuresome we also have a schedule of United States Swimming Meets for the coming year.

For further information contact the Wayne Recreation Community Center at 721-7400.

Cougars are winners

The Belleville Senior Cougars turned back the Taylor Stallions 32 to 12 as Kurt Riling scored on runs of 1 and 35 yards.

Jerry Whitehill also tallied on a 3-yard run and Nick Kopsolias scored twice on 45 and 35 yard pass plays with quarterback

Greg Frietas. Kopsolias and Riling also caught an extra point from Frietas. The Cougars will play the Taylor Cobras on Saturday at Belleville High at 1 p.m.

Pvt. Thomas A. Peterson, son of Elizabeth A. Peterson of 8701 Belleville, Belleville, has completed basic training at Fort Dix, N.J.

During the training, students received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

He is a 1975 graduate of Frank Cody High School, Detroit.

Cadet James D. Hutchinson, son of Rosalie Hudson of 18504 Merriman, Romulus, received practical work in military leadership at the U.S. Army ROTC advanced camp, Fort Riley, Kan.

The six-week camp, attended by cadets normally between their third and fourth year of college, includes instruction in communications, management and survival training.

Successful completion of the advanced camp and graduation from college results in a commission as a second lieutenant in either the U.S. Army, Army Reserve or National Guard for the cadet.

Hutchinson is a student at Lincoln Memorial University, Harrogate, Tenn., and is attending ROTC at Carson-Newman College, Jefferson City, Tenn.

Paul A. Innes, 19, son of Harold and Mary Innes, 42121 Willis Rd., Belleville, has entered the U.S. Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program (DEP).

According to Staff Sergeant Mike Walton, the Air Force recruiter here, Innes' entry into the DEP serves two purposes. First, it allows the Air Force to schedule an opening for him to attend basic training and be assigned to a job or skill area. Second, the DEP enables Innes, a 1982 graduate of Belleville High School, to wrap up his personal affairs before leaving home.

Innes will enter the Regular Air Force on Nov. 30. Following graduation from the six-week basic training course at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., he will receive technical training in the mechanical aptitude area and be assigned to an Air Force duty station.

Navy Bioler Technician Fireman Apprentice Gary D. Eanes, son of Claude and Nellie Eanes of 29851 Smith, Romulus, has reported for duty with the Precommissioning Detail of the battleship Iowa, Norfolk, Va.

Russell H. Yeager, 17, son of Henry and Patricia Yeager, 22523 W. Huron River Dr., New Boston, has entered the U.S. Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program (DEP).

According to Technical Sergeant William Morrison, the Air Force recruiter here, Yeager's entry into the DEP serves two purposes.

First, it allows the Air Force to schedule an opening for him to attend basic training and be assigned to a job or skill area. Second, the DEP enables Yeager, a 1983 graduate of Huron High School, to wrap up his personal affairs before leaving home.

Yeager will enter the Regular Air Force on Jan. 11. Following graduation from the six-week basic training course at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., he will receive technical training in the general aptitude area and be assigned to an Air Force duty station.

Airman 1st Class Kipper A.

Bray, son of Phyllis R. Bray of 10688 Buchanan, Belleville, has participated in Global Shield 83, an exercise involving U.S. Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps units, and elements of the Canadian forces.

The exercise, coordinated by the Air Force Strategic Air Command (SAC), was designed to enhance readiness and the ability of SAC to carry out orders should deterrence fail.

Bray is presently serving with the 379th Bombardment Wing at Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Mich.

He is a 1980 graduate of Belleville High School.

Patrick A. McClelland, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. McClelland of 118 Bedell, Belleville, has completed a U.S. Air Force ROTC field training encampment at Plattsburgh Air Force Base, N.Y.

Field training, attended by cadets normally between their second and third year of college, gives an opportunity to evaluate each student's potential as an officer, according to an Air Force spokesman.

The summer's curriculum consists of orientations on jet aircraft, career opportunities, human relations education and equal opportunity training. Physical fitness and survival training is also emphasized.

The field training is four weeks, but cadets in the two-year ROTC program receive an additional two weeks of instruction in the development of air power and the contemporary Air Force.

McClelland is a student at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Robert K. Brandreth, son of Robert and Betty Brandreth of 38051 Pennsylvania Road, New Boston, has completed training in fundamental military skills at the Army ROTC basic camp at Fort Knox, Ky.

The basic camp is designed to give junior college graduates and college sophomores who have not taken ROTC courses the chance to enter the program. The camp also qualifies high school graduates for the ROTC program at any of the nation's six military junior colleges.

During the encampment, cadets received training in basic rifle marksmanship, military drill and ceremonies, communications and individual and small unit tactics.

Brandreth plans to enter the ROTC program at Michigan Technological University at Houghton.

Army Pvt. John E. Swaro, son of Ronnie E. and Shirley L. Swaro of 12140 Sharon, Romulus, has completed the power generation and wheeled-vehicle mechanics course at the U.S. Army Training Center, Fort Dix, N.J.

The self-paced, performance-oriented program of instruction taught basic automotive theory, maintenance-shop operations, and specific maintenance procedures for tactical vehicles, including 1/4-ton, 1 1/4-ton, 2 1/2-ton and 5-ton trucks.

The course also included instruction in the operation and maintenance of power-generation equipment and arc welders.

He is a 1981 graduate of Romulus Senior High School.

SUMPTER TOWNSHIP BOARD MINUTES

MINUTES OF A SPECIAL MEETING OF THE SUMPTER TOWNSHIP BOARD
HELD ON SEPTEMBER 19, 1983

Special Meeting called to order by Supervisor Reeves at 5:00 P.M. with the pledge of allegiance to the flag. Roll Call Showing:

Present: Supervisor Reeves, Clerk Banotai, Treasurer Hoffman and Trustees Morgan, Huziak and Humphreys

Absent: Bevins

Excused: Bevins

Also present: Bruce Boice, Lee Jordan, Secretary Newburn and two interested citizens.

Motion by Morgan, supported by Humphreys to accept the agenda. Motion carried unanimously.

Agenda

1. Pledge
2. Roll Call
3. Approval of Agenda
4. Discussion of Emergency Jobs Bill
5. Adjournment

Supervisor Reeves opened the meeting by telling the Board about the Jobs Bill. The Township had 130 people apply and only 20 positions to fill. It will be approximately a 10 week program. Stated that Lee Jordan and Bruce Boice had interviewed these people.

Mr. Reeves asked for the recommendations of Jordan and Boice. B. Boice stated that he could use only 9 people that were qualified. L. Jordan stated that he could use 6 people.

Mr. Morgan asked how many people were qualified.

Mr. Humphreys asked if we were using Township people.

Discussion followed concerning who was qualified.

Mr. Jordan stated that he picked people he felt could do the job best.

Stated that he understood the program to read that they had X amount of dollars to put into the building. He selected the best qualified people for the job.

Mr. Hoffman asked if Jordan and Boice had submitted to Supervisor Reeves the price of how much it would cost the Township for their services.

Mr. Humphreys asked how far the money and project would go. To what extent.

Mr. Humphreys asked what would be done structurally to the Old Township Hall. Asked about any changes to the floor plan. Mr. Jordan stated that yes some minor changes would be needed. To install a handicapped toilet upstairs. Mr. Banotai asked about a handicapped ramp. Stated that the Township make all the necessary improvements first.

Mr. Reeves stated that the work HAD TO BE DONE on the Old Township Hall.

Mr. Morgan asked who was going to supervise the workers. Stated that he needed the breakdown on the costs.

Mr. Reeves read agreement with Lee Jordan and the Township. He will be paid $20.00 dollars an hour. With a minimum of 20 hours a week.

Mr. Jordan asked if he was going to be an employee of the Township or a contractor.

Motion by Hoffman, supported by Morgan that Bruce Boice and Lee Jordan give a complete breakdown on the costs of their contract, a copy of the contract, a list of people that they recommend to the Township Board and how the monies are to be spent.

Motion carried unanimously.

Mr. Reeves stated that he still did not know what the workers hourly rate would be.

Mr. Hoffman asked what B. Boice's rate of pay was. Mr. Boice stated $13.50 per hour. Mr. Morgan asked what the cost of this equipment would be.

3. Card of Thanks

A PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, you who make me see everything, and showed me the way to reach my ideal, you who gave me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more, that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Person must pray the prayer 3 consecutive days without asking your wish. After 3rd day, wish will be granted no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this dialogue as soon as favor is granted. Z.C.U.

VOLUME DEALER
IN AMERICA

AMC/JEEP RENAULT
OFFERS A 1983 MODEL MULTI-MILLION-DOLLAR
NEW CAR CLEARANCE SALE

OUT THEY GO! Regardless of Price!!! And Believe Me, They Must!

America is the Number One Nation on Earth and the Number One car market in the entire world. We say Thanks America for making us Number One in our product line with American Motors. We are so proud everything we sell and say is American all the way! Why does Taylor AMC Jeep Renault keep 700 new Cars, Jeep and Trucks in stock? Because they are the largest in the United States. All our deals are based on volume. Therefore, we can sell them for just a few dollars over our cost because we sell such astronomically large numbers of new vehicles. Far less profit per unit is required for us to stay in business. Thus, we pass these fantastic savings on to you, our ever valued customer, and continued to maintain our ever precious and valued name as the Number One Give-A-Way Artists in America. Ladies and gentlemen, these are not good deals... they're a steal.

ADC RECIPIENTS LEARN NEW SKILLS, OBTAIN EMPLOYMENT

Wayne County Dept. of Social Services now offers new training program to help you get out of the welfare trap.

Job training is available for Machinists, Word Processing, Electronics, Auto Mechanics, Dry Cleaning, Alterations, Alarm System and Cable TV Installations. Training in many other skills also is offered.

These new programs afford placement opportunities along with job training matching the needs of recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

Eligibility is limited to ADC recipients registered with the DSS Employment and Training Program.

For more details and referral, call your Employment and Training Services Worker in your District Office.

LASER BEAM SURGERY

Laser beam surgery is a new and improved method for the treatment of conventional foot ailments. Laser beam surgery has proven to be safe and effective in the allied medical fields such as ophthalmology, gynecology and now, podiatry. We are one of few physicians to incorporate this new medical treatment which can help eliminate fear of conventional surgery.

WHAT IS LASER PODIATRY?

The major difference in laser podiatry and conventional surgery is that normal cutting is not done. A macroscopically controlled laser beam is focused on the infected skin and nail.

Foot Problems Solved by Laser Light

In Podiatry, a considerable variety of foot ailments can be treated with the laser

INGROWN NAILS

The corner of the nail and root are vaporized which is the cause of the problem.

FUNGUS NAILS

Normally a painful operation with cutting, the laser vaporizes the nail which is quicker and less painful. It also sterilizes and destroys the fungus.

PLANTERS CALLOUSES

With this process deep seated corns on the bottom of the foot are vaporized.

WARTS

Laser beam is used to evaporate instead of cutting the wart, thus eliminating growth and recurrence.
